WALL STREET STOCK PRICE TREND LOWER AT THE CLOSE

Alternate Periods of Weakness and Strength Characterize Day's Trade on Exchange.

RENEWAL RATE OF FUNDS 8 PER CENT

Inclination Shown to Await President Hoover's Message to Congress on Farm Relief and Other Matters

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Alternate periods of weakness and strength characterized today's stock market, with the general list headed downward at the close on a renewal of liquidation in the copper and motor shares. Early gains of 1 to 5 points were, in many cases, cut down or wiped out, and several of the leading industrials closed 1 to nearly 3 points lower.

The reaction which took place in the face of favorable trade and business news, was influenced by a large extent by the uncertainty regarding the contents of President Hoover's message to Congress tomorrow, and the action to be taken on farm relief and the tariff at the special session of Congress which opened today.

Stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation approved an increase from 7,533,210 to 12,500,000 shares in the authorized common stock in order to provide for the redemption of funded indebtedness. Terms of the new stock offering will be announced after a special meeting of directors tomorrow. At the close of the market General Motors reported that during March dealers delivered 205,113 cars to consumers as compared with 183,706 in the same month last year, an increase of 7.1 per cent.

Break in Case.

Case Threshing broke 25 points to a new low for the year at 495 in the last few minutes of trading. This compares with the year's high of 509.

Chrysler sold down nearly 3 points to a new low for the year at 852, on liquidation believed to be for the account of powerful financial interests, who are rumored to have taken over a large block of distress stock from one of Wall Street's operators a few weeks ago. General Motors reacted in sympathy, despite record-breaking first quarter sales.

President reports that several copper stocks had liquidated their holdings, coupled with the recent downward readjustment in red metal prices, accounted for the weakness of the copper shares.

Huey, driving to work in his Chevrolet coach, was hailed by young Partney, who was on his way to school and gave him a ride. The roadster auto reached the crossing simultaneously with northbound train No. 49, a special from Bonne Terre.

A Post-Dispatch reporter obtained an account of the collision from Gus Kauz, a baker, 4049 Eichelberger avenue.

"I was driving 50 feet behind the Chevrolet and saw the train when it was about 50 feet from the crossing. I stopped my car, but the Chevrolet kept on going."

"The automatic wig-wag danger sign was waving back and forth, but I don't know whether the crossing bell was ringing before the accident. It was ringing afterward, though."

"The train was traveling about 45 miles an hour. It stopped 200 feet down the track. The auto was across 20 feet before it was hit, though it landed on one side. The people in the car landed on the other side of the tracks."

Boy seriously Hurt.

Partney, who occupied the seat nearest the train, was rendered unconscious. Huey was suffering from shock. Both were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital by passing motorists. Partney's condition was regarded as especially serious.

Huey, in an interval of consciousness at the hospital, said he saw no signal and heard no bell. He said he slowed down for the crossing, shifted gears and was traveling very slowly when struck.

No statements were obtained from the train engineer and conductor, Gus Evans, 1814A Ohio avenue, and Albert Corum, 3315A Minnesota avenue.

The crossing is not protected by a watchman or safety gates, but is equipped with an automatic bell and waving signals. Nearby residents told a reporter that the bell was rung for the crossing, but that the bell was not rung for the crossing, and for that reason he is regarded as a motorist.

The same crossing was the scene of a fatal accident in 1927 when George A. Wahling, 612 Dover place, was killed when his car was demolished by a Missouri Pacific train. Last Feb. 22, Steven Schewert, 3925 Schiller place, and his daughter, Mrs. Hilda Brecht, was killed at the Eller street crossing when their car was struck by a Missouri Pacific train. Four persons were killed when their auto was struck by a Missouri Pacific train at the Wilmington avenue crossing in 1926. These crossings are in the same neighborhood and are similarly equipped.

Railway Prefers Signals.

A week ago the State Public Service Commission held a public hearing at City Hall, but made no decision on the application of the late Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 30, 31, 32 and 33.

DETROIT, April 15.—Less than 60 seconds after a robber with a note to the cashier, attempted to hold up a branch bank at 11:15 a. m. today, he was facing the drawn weapons of the crew of a Detroit police department radio-equipped automobile.

The police car was three blocks from the scene of the holdup when a voice from the Belle Isle police station announced that a People's Wayne County Bank branch was being robbed. The dash to the bank required only a few seconds, and the as man ran out he met four patrolmen. He threw up his hands and surrendered.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 15.—Several cameras prevented the attendance of John D. Rockefeller Sr. at church yesterday. The Rev. Marshall Sewell, pastor of First Baptist Church, announced this morning that he would ask for a police detail next week to keep photographers clear of the church property.

The camera men, whose numbers included two mounted on automobile trucks containing sound registering apparatus, were grouped about the church steps and lawn when Rockefeller's automobile arrived. The aged millionaire looked once from the window of his limousine and ordered the chauffeur to return to the estate.

There was a rush for automobiles on the part of the photographers and a half hour's chase about town followed, with Rockefeller making a vain attempt to get into another church. The pursuit ended at the gates of the estate.

66 OIL LEASES OUT OF 34,000 DRILLING PERMITS

Interior Department Reports Many Frauds Have Been Committed Under General Leasing Law.

Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The general oil land leasing law was held today in a Department of Interior announcement to have been used by many unscrupulous persons and associations for their own special benefit and to the detriment of those induced to enter into their schemes.

Some of the schemes, it was said, violated the general laws against fraud rather than the public land laws and in many cases improper use of the mails had been found. The statement added that of the 34,000 oil prospecting permits that have been granted only 66 leases have been issued.

The department's files are filling gradually with letters from persons who have paid into "willing" organizations funds they cannot recover. Since President Hoover's oil conservation program went into effect many more violations have been uncovered.

Many permits have been acquired by legitimate developers and the Government has received millions of dollars in royalty from their efforts. But since the passage of the general leasing law five years ago the department has had thousands of applications for prospecting permits in territory where Government officials have found no visible evidence that it contained oil and gas.

These applications were filed and certain requirements of law set in the hope that the land might be eventually sold for a large profit, the statement said.

Federal Board Measure Ready for Presentation to House After Preliminaries.

LONGWORTH SPEAKER FOR THE THIRD TIME

Urge Representatives to Finish Work Before Dog Days—Hoover's Message Tomorrow.

Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Faced with the task of solving two fundamental American problems, a special session of the Senate—first session today at the call of Speaker Longworth to begin work on a bill to aid agriculture and to reduce the tariff law.

It was a new Congress, but it was predominated by old faces and political makeup was much more strongly Republican than that of the Congress which went into office on March 4. The landslide of last November swept out of office many Democrats and carried in many Republicans to take their places.

A farm relief bill was ready for consideration when the hour ushered in the session.

Longworth Again Speaker. Congressman Nicholas J. Longworth of Ohio was re-elected speaker of the House of Representatives by a vote of 259 against for Congressman Garner of Texas, Democrat.

After this it was just a question of calling the rolls; installing Speaker and other officers; apportioning committees to notify the Senate that Congress was ready to business, swearing in new members, adopting resolutions of regret at the death of members who had passed since the last session and adjournment.

President Hoover will send his recommendations for legislation to Congress tomorrow.

Longworth, in accepting the speakership of the House for the third consecutive term, urged his colleagues to throw the legislative machinery into high gear and get any from the Capitol before the days of late summer.

Urge Prompt Action.

"I speak from experience," he said, "when I say that legislation framed in a temperature of 60 degrees is not apt to be good legislation. I urge something more than a majority in Congress and to the country if this session should be so prolonged."

The Speaker outlined a three-year legislative program of farm tariff revision, and House apportionment, and said that he "might seem reckless" to the preliminary work could be completed in little more than a month, he thought it possible.

Longworth said he was certain members of the House felt agriculture had not prospered the same degree as other American industries and that we agree that we should do what properly can legislatively to attribute to its greater prosperity.

Eight women had seats in the House when it met, and for the last three years a Negro, De Priest of Chicago, was seated.

In the House, 68 new members were called to take the oath along with those re-elected last November.

Crowds of visitors attracted by the opening session attracted many visitors to the Capitol, and the gavels rapped the two houses to order the galleries were crowded and the hallways leading them were choked with those who were unsuccessful in their efforts to gain entrance. In the case of the talking motion picture machines were set up and camouflaged from points of vantage. One of the new members, Mr. Ludlow of Indiana, could forget that he was a newspaperman, and walked about the floor.

The first woman member to appear was Congresswoman Pearl Men Oldfield, an Arkansas Democrat, who is filling the seat held by her husband at the time of his death.

The ceremony today was followed by a reception.

TWO HURT IN AUTO HIT BY TRAIN AT GRADE CROSSING

Missouri Pacific for permission to substitute automatic light and bell signals at 13 grade crossings in South and Southwest St. Louis, which still have crossing watchmen and gates. Executives of the railroad declared the substitution was in the interest of safety as well as of economy, and said experimental operation of such automatic signals at Pennsylvania and Minnesota avenues during the last year had been successful.

The Pennsylvania avenue crossing was the scene of a collision at 4:30 a.m. yesterday, when an auto driven by Herman Bodewes, 65 years old, a baker, 9928 Smith avenue, St. Louis County, was struck and damaged by a Missouri Pacific freight train. Bodewes escaped injury. He told police he saw no body. An inquest will be held.

MAN DEAD OF GAS POISON

Mrs. Margaret Hager, 64, a widow, was found dead of gas poison in the kitchen of her home, 3912A Clayton avenue, this morning. Three burners of a gas range were open, but not lighted. Mrs. Hager, 3910A Clayton avenue, was attracted by an electric light hanging in Mrs. Hager's kitchen at 5 a.m. Investigated and found body. An inquest will be held.

Edward F. Pike, 26 years old, a deckhand on the freight steamer Iowa, drowned today at the foot of Rutgers street when he slipped on the gangplank and fell into the Mississippi River.

Officers of the Iowa told police Pike had shipped at New Orleans, giving his home address as Elmond, Wis. He was struck on the gangplank in the rain when he slipped, striking his head on the dock. His body was recovered 30 minutes later.

MARRIAGE ANNULMENT RULING GIVEN AT ROME

Papal Commission Bars Plea of "Conditions Imposed Prior to Rite."

By the Associated Press.

ROME, April 15.—A papal commission for authentic interpretation of the code of canon law, of which Cardinal Gaspari is chairman, has decided that applicants for the annulment of marriage may no longer plead "conditions imposed prior to celebration of the rite."

According to the language of the commission, this would mean that such annulments as that of the Duchess of Marlborough, the former Countess Vanderbilt and now Mme. Jacques Balsan, from the Duke of Marlborough, in which parental pressure was pleaded on behalf of the wife, no longer would be available.

Mrs. Zellermann ran out into the yard, her clothing afire, while Wedig was putting out the fire in his own garments. A neighbor jumped over a fence and rolled Mrs. Zellermann on the ground, extinguishing the flames.

Both Mrs. Zellermann and Wedig were burned about the face and body. Mrs. Zellermann died at 6:45 o'clock, and her brother five hours later.

SHOOTS MAN IN A QUARREL OVER TWO MONTHS' ROOM RENT

Nashville (Tenn.) Merchant Surrenders, Saying, "He Wouldn't Pay Me, So I Settled."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 15.—"He owed me. He wouldn't pay me. So I settled it."

After an explosion, John B. Bent, 53 years old, a merchant, surrendered to police here last night after he had shot and gravely wounded T. L. Benderman, 54, road contractor, at their home last night.

Bent owned Bent two months' room rent which he was unable to pay, Bent said today.

The attack occurred while the Bent, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly K. Wharton—lay in bed. Wharton, who was 20 years old, died without regaining consciousness. His wife was unable to give a description of the assailant. Two children sleeping in the same room were unharmed. The earlier crime, in which a woman was slain, has never been solved.

TWO KILLED AND FOUR HURT IN FAMILY QUARREL

Pending Divorce Action Cause of Shooting at Dunning, Neb.

By the Associated Press.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., April 15.—Charles Moore and his son, Frank, of Dunning, Neb., were killed, and O. A. Ridener of Sutherland and three sons of the latter were shot in the arms as the result of a family quarrel Saturday night. Sheriff Salisbury was summoned and found the two Moores dead in the Ridener front yard. The shooting was the culmination of a divorce action started last August by Mrs. Frank Moore, a daughter of O. A. Ridener. The action was to have been heard this week. Mrs. Moore had the custody of the three children. The elder Moore, his son, and a former hired girl in the Moore family, went to the Ridener home last night with the intention, it was said, of obtaining possession of the children. A quarrel ensued and when the shooting had stopped two were dead and four wounded. Sheriff Salisbury was summoned and found the two Moores dead in the Ridener front yard.

MAN AND BOY DIE OF INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Benjamin Schulman, 60, hit by Service Car—E. A. Johnson, 16, Hurt Friday on Motorcycle, Dies.

DRIVERLESS BUS RAMS PARKED MACHINE

Jacob Sanders Suffers Fracture of Skull When Heavy Vehicle Runs Away Down Hill.

Benjamin Schulman, 60 years old, 4803 Fountain avenue, died at City Hospital at 11:20 a.m. today of a fractured skull and internal injuries suffered three hours earlier when he walked into the side of a service car driven by William Martin, 6759 Raymond avenue, at Page boulevard and Walton avenue.

Schulman, a retired restaurant proprietor, stepped into the street to board a street car as Martin's machine, eastbound, reached the intersection. Four women passengers in the service car corroborated Martin's statement that Schulman walked into the right side of the machine and was knocked to the pavement.

An inquest will be held.

Albert K. Johnson, 16, a student, died at St. Luke's Hospital today of injuries received last Friday afternoon when a motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Nellie G. Kauffman, 4327 Westminster place, at a driveway leading from Enright avenue to the court yard of St. Luke's Hospital. Johnson was the son of Theodore Johnson, 6925 Columbia avenue, University City.

Mary E. Smith, 14, daughter of Mrs. John Case, 5588 Pershing place, who was a passenger on the motorcycle, is in a serious condition at the hospital with fractures of the pelvis and left arm. The accident occurred as Johnson was riding east in Enright avenue and struck the machine driven by Mrs. Kauffman as it was being turned into the driveway from the west. The motorcycle then struck a street light standard and a parked car. Johnson suffered fractures of the skull and right arm and internal injuries. An inquest will be held. Hurt When Driverless Bus Hits His Auto.

Jacob Sanders, 12½, Delaware avenue, Wellman, suffered a skull fracture at 7:45 o'clock last night when a driverless motorbus crashed into his parked machine at Third street and Washington avenue.

The accident occurred when Douglas Martin of East St. Louis, chauffeur for the East St. Louis and Suburban Railway Co., left the bus standing on an incline at the western approach to Eads Bridge while he made an inquiry concerning a St. Louis address of a policeman. The brakes on the bus apparently slipped and the machine, which was unoccupied, rolled down the incline to Washington avenue.

Sanders is at City Hospital in a serious condition. Martin was arrested.

Adolph Lederer, 81 years old, 6165 Waterman avenue, is in the Jewish Hospital in a serious condition, suffering from a fractured left shoulder, lacerations and shock. Herbert Berger, proprietor of an undertaking establishment at 4715 McPherson avenue, who brought Lederer to the hospital, said he found the man in the street in front of the McPherson avenue address at 10 o'clock last night. Lederer was unable to tell the police what had happened to him, but they think he was struck by an automobile.

Machine Hits Light Post.

Dr. Christian Eyermann, 70 years old, suffered a fractured collar bone, internal injuries and shock yesterday when an automobile he was driving struck an electric light standard at Geyer and Nebraska avenues after a collision with an automobile driven by John Hamlin, 2912A Oregon avenue. Dr. Eyermann was taken to his home, 1752 South Jefferson avenue, where it was said his injuries were serious. Charges of careless driving were placed against both drivers.

Paul Robert, 1215 Mississippi avenue, suffered a skull fracture at 10 p.m. when struck by an automobile driven by Ecco Collier, 1332 Hickory street, in front of 1439 Chouteau avenue. He is at City Hospital.

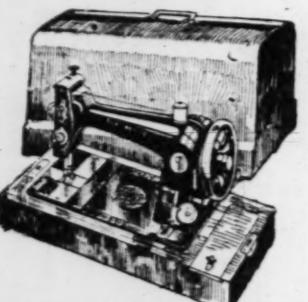

An early morning collision yesterday on the St. Charles road near St. John's station between a car driven by J. W. Lockwood, Paducah, Ky., and Henry Roark, 5539 Vernon avenue, resulted in minor injuries to Lockwood and two companions, J. M. House and Lloyd Porter, also of Paducah. They were treated at Overland hospital for shock and bruises.

Floyd Tanderer, living on the Telegraph road near Oakville, suffered a broken left leg and injuries about the back yesterday morning when his car skidded into a ditch on Tesson road, one-half mile south of Gravels road.

Tanderer, Mrs. W. Gleaner, 3325 Oregon avenue, and Miss Florence Kettler of Afton, were cut by glass. All were taken to Lutheran Hospital.

FALL KILLS THREE
MARINE FLYERS AT LAKE NICARAGUA

Amphibian Plane on Map-Making Expedition for Proposed Canal Crashes
Near San Carlos.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 15.—A Second Lieutenant and two noncommissioned Marine officers were killed in an airplane crash Saturday afternoon at Lake Nicaragua, near San Carlos. They were:
Second Lieutenant James Beatty
McHugh, Clemson College, S. C.
Sergt. Byron O. Piner, Roanoke, Va.

Corp. Otto Miller, Pittsburg, Pa.
The three men were engaged in making a mosaic map of the proposed Nicaraguan Canal when their plane, a marine amphibian type, OL-8, crashed. The cause of the accident was not learned by Marine headquarters. Maj. L. M.
Bourne, commander of the aviation squadron, left yesterday morning for San Carlos to obtain the details.

The bodies of the victims were placed on a lake steamer for Granada, where they will be transferred to train for Managua and subsequent transportation to the United States.

The widow of Lieut. McHugh received news of the accident at Managua. Marine records list the next of kin of Corporal Miller as Mrs. Helen Miller, Pittsburg. The next of kin of Sergt. Piner is recorded as Mrs. N. L. Piner, Roanoke, Va.

Lieut. McHugh was piloting the machine while Sergt. Piner was the photographer. McHugh enjoyed an excellent reputation as an all-round pilot and was highly esteemed by his fellow officers as a Marine combat man. The three men were attached to the Second Marine Brigade.

CHINESE FIRE ON BRITISH
GUNBOAT, THREE WOUNDED

Shanghai Also Learns Foreigners in Changteh Have Been Attacked.

SHANGHAI, April 15.—A telegram from Ichang, Hupeh Province, said three British sailors were wounded when a British gunboat was fired upon from the banks of the Yangtze Kiang, near that city.

A telegram from Changteh, in Northwest Hunan, said that foreigners there had been under fire for six days, that the Asiatic Petroleum Co.'s agency was wrecked, and the Catholic mission located.

The Asiatic company's English man, Gabb, was captured by the Chinese soldiers, and wounded in the thigh. He was then stripped and tied to a post where he remained for 18 hours without food, finally escaping to a nearby mission.

The latest information here, however, was that the soldiers concerned had departed and that foreigners were in no further danger.

DICTIONSHIP IN CUBA SAID TO BE BASED ON LOTTERY

President Allocates Collect-

Post-Dispatch Bureau,

201-203 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Charges of Cuban opposition leaders that President Machado has set up a virtual dictatorship, in which he is aided by his control of the lottery system, are contained in a view of the Cuban political situation published here today by the Foreign Policy Association.

Machado will be inaugurated as president for a second term May 20.

The report is by Raymond Leslie Bell, research director of the association, who made a first-hand study of the Cuban political situation during the Pan-American Conference at Havana last year.

Bell recalls that President Machado was re-elected without opposition last November following adoption of constitutional amendments extending the term of the president to six years. Machado was first elected in 1924 on a platform pledging non-re-election for a second term.

Control Through Lottery.

The charges, which are made by leaders of the Union Nationalists, assert that legal opposition has been silenced "first by the control of members of the Cuban Congress through the lottery, and second, by Government control over the organization of political parties and the suppression of freedom of discussion."

The report states that the lottery system, which dates back to the Spanish regime, is in the hands of the President who allocates "collectorships" yielding enormous profit to Senators and Representatives.

"The nominal price of each lottery ticket is $20," the report states, "but in practice collectorships range as high as $30, retaining the difference for himself."

The claim that the present administration employs the lottery for political purposes, is denied by Machado, who recently stated that "while many politicians had come to solicit personal benefits and the collectorships of the lottery, he had declined to concede them such privileges and it was thus that some of the enemies of the Government had been made."

Among the many complaints lodged against the Machado regime, according to the report, is the claim that the guarantees of fair elections and independent political parties set forth in the electoral code of 1923, drafted by Gen. Enoch Crowder, have been emasculated, and that the Government has rigorously suppressed all opposition to its extension of power.

Independents Handicapped.
"Specifically," the report states, "it is maintained that in laws passed in 1920, 1921, 1922, 1925 and 1927 the Cuban Congress has whittled away the guarantees of the Crowder electoral code. It is charged that the provisions for the periodic reorganization of political parties, prohibiting officials from serving on party assemblies and requiring separate candidates for each party, have been set aside. As a result of these amendments, it is charged that it has become virtually impossible for any independent group to organize as a party and run candidates for Congress or other public office."

In regard to alleged suppression of the Cuban labor movement, the report quotes a complaint lodged with the Cuban Ambassador in Washington by William Green, in his capacity as president of the Pan-American Federation of Labor in 1927. Green presented "certain allegations, information and facts together with the names of many persons, who it is alleged, have been assassinated because of their association with and their activities in behalf of benevolent labor organizations to which they belonged in Cuba."

In reply, Dr. Ferrara, the Cuban Ambassador, stated that the deeds presented were so fantastic as to render them unbelievable.

Meetings Broken Up.

Other complaints listed in the report refer to specific cases where Government troops and police broke up political meetings when permits had been granted by local authorities, particularly in Santiago, Los Palacios, Matanzas and Matanzas. They also cite cases of censorship of press, illegal Antimodification of opposition political leaders, the closing of the University of Havana and political assassinations. In the spring of 1929, Dr. Rafael Iturralde resigned his portfolio as Minister of War and fled to New York, where he declared that "countless assassinations have been perpetrated by orders of the Government through its agents."

Referring to the recent anti-Government plot, which resulted in the arrest of nine persons charged with organizing an armed movement to prevent the continuation in power of the present administration, the report quotes Octavio Beigie, a founder of the Union Nationalists, denying the existence of any plot against President Machado's life, but asserting that these means had been used by Machado to silence his political opponents. The report also quotes President Machado as declaring that these men had been arrested.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Shares of Cuban opposition leaders that President Machado has set as a virtual dictatorship, in which is aided by his control of the treasury system, are contained in a new of the Cuban political situation published here today by the Foreign Policy Association.

Machado will be inaugurated as president executive for a second term next year on May 20.

The report is by Raymond Leslie Buell, research director of the association, who made a first-hand study of the Cuban political situation during the Pan-American Conference at Havana last year.

Buell recalls that President Machado was re-elected without opposition last November, following adoption of constitutional amendments extending the term of the presidency to six years. Machado was first elected in 1924 on a platform pledging non-re-election for a second term.

Control Through Lottery.

The charges, which are made by leaders of the Union Nationalista assert that legal opposition has been silenced "first by the control of members of the Cuban Congress through the lottery, and second, by Government control over the organization of political parties and the suppression of freedom of discussion."

The report states that the lottery system, which dates back to the Spanish regime, is in the hands of the President who allocates "collectorships" yielding enormous profit to Senators and Representatives.

The nominal price of each lottery ticket is $20, the report states, but in practice collectorships charges as high as $30, retaining the difference for themselves.

The claim that the present administration employs the lottery for political purposes, is denied by Machado, who recently stated that "while many politicians had come to solicit personal benefits and the collectorships of the lottery, he had declined to concede them such privileges and it was thus that some of the enemies of the Government had been made."

Another of the main complaints lodged against the Machado regime, according to the report, is the claim that the guarantees of fair elections and independent political parties set up in the electoral code of 1919, drafted by Gen. Enoch Crowder, have been emasculated, and that the Government has rigorously suppressed all opposition to its extension of power.

Independents Handicapped.

"Specifically" the report states, "it is maintained that in laws passed in 1920, 1921, 1922, 1925 and 1927 the Cuban Congress has whitewashed the guarantees of the Crowder electoral code. It is charged that the provisions for the periodic reorganization of political parties, prohibiting officials from serving on party assemblies and requiring separate candidates for each party, have been set aside. As a result of these amendments, it is charged that it has become virtually impossible for any independent group to organize as a party and run candidates for Congress or other public office."

In regard to alleged suppression of the Cuban labor movement, the report quotes a complaint lodged with the Cuban Ambassador in Washington by William Green, in his capacity as president of the Pan-American Federation of Labor in 1927. Green presented "certain allegations, information and facts, together with the names of many persons, who it is alleged, have been assassinated because of their association with and their activities in behalf of bona fide labor organizations to which they belonged in Cuba."

In reply, Dr. Ferrara, the Cuban Ambassador, stated that the deeds presented were so fantastic as to render them unbelievable.

Meetings Broken Up.

Other complaints listed in the report refer to specific cases where Government troops and police broke up political meetings when permits had been granted by local authorities, particularly in Santiago, Los Palacios, Matanzas and Matanzas. They also list cases of censorship of press, alleged intimidation of opposition political leaders, the closing of the University of Havana and political assassinations. In the spring of 1929, Dr. Ferrara surrendered his portfolio as Minister of War and fled to New York, where he declared that "countless assassinations have been perpetrated by agents of the Government through its agents."

Referring to the recent anti-Government plot, which resulted in the arrest of nine persons charged with organizing an armed movement to prevent the continuation in power of the present administration, the report quotes Octavio Argüello, a founder of the Union Nationalista, denying the existence of any plot against President Machado's life, but asserting that these means had been used by Machado to silence his political opponents. The report also quotes President Machado as declaring that these men had been arrested because of "anti-patriotic and insidious propaganda."

The report refers to the Senate resolution of April 1928, calling for a Senate investigation of alleged violation of political and individual freedom in Cuban seizures of American property without due process of law.

TECHNICAL ADVISER TO BOARD OF ALDERMEN IS PROPOSED
Wimer Says His Bill Would Give Opportunity to Check on Departments.

A bill to provide the Board of Aldermen with an engineer or technical adviser, at a salary of not more than $5000 a year, will be introduced in the board tomorrow by Alderman Wimer of the Twenty-seventh Ward.

Wimer said today that such an engineer would serve the board and its committees in all matters of appropriations involving engineering work and would constitute an unbiased source of information.

At present, he explained, the board receives bills and estimates from department heads and is unable to check them because of lack of technical knowledge.

TWO SHOT IN ROW OVER A VIOLIN AT CLUBHOUSE PARTY

Noah J. Overton and Wife, Entertaining Friends at Long Lake, Madison County, Wounded.

Two persons are in a hospital, suffering from bullet wounds, and a young man is being sought by the authorities as the one who shot the violin at a clubhouse on Long Lake, Madison County, Ill., Saturday night over the ownership of a

Noah J. Overton, who was shot twice in the right arm, once in the abdomen, and once in the right side. His wife, Beulah, was shot in the right chest and right forearm. At St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, where they were taken, it was said that Mrs. Overton would recover, but that her husband's condition was serious.

Witnesses of the shooting told Deputy Sheriffs that Floyd Wells, a guest at a party given by the Overtons to open the spring season at Long Lake, was furnishing the music with a violin, said to have been borrowed. Late Saturday night, the violin was taken from the clubhouse and claimed the violin.

Wells and the Overtons, and certain others of the 15 persons present protested that to take the violin would break up the party, the witnesses declared. After an alteration, they asserted, Ippett produced a pistol and fired at Overton and his wife.

Deputy Sheriffs who visited the home of Ippett's mother, Mrs. Mary Ryan, in East Alton, said Mrs. Ryan told them her son had come home, told her of the shooting, obtained some money and departed. Long Lake is about five miles northeast of Granite City.

W. C. DURANT ATTACKS FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Charges Efforts to Curb Speculation Are Work of "Autocratic Group."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 15.—W. C. Durant, in a radio address last night attacked the Federal Reserve Board for its efforts to curb speculation through restriction of borrowing loans. He told 1500 of the 500 prominent industrialists in 20 cities to declare themselves for or against the board's policy and said replies from 463 had been received, with only 12 upholding the board.

Durant portrayed the Federal Reserve Board as arrayed in "battle" on the business interests of the country. He characterized the eight members as an "autocratic group," said their power was greater than that of the President himself and said it was a force "beyond that of any constituted authority of the United States."

He predicted a nation-wide movement to modify the Federal Reserve act to curtail the power of the board, which he said was being abused, and cited the replies of the industrialists as showing the extent of dissatisfaction.

TWO STUDENTS FINED FOR REFUSING TO PAY TAX BILL

Two young men, who said they were students in the engineering school of the University of Mississippi, touring large cities in connection with their studies, were fined $1 each yesterday by Police Judge Geary at East St. Louis after they had refused to pay a taxicab bill.

The prisoners said they had gone to a St. Louis gambling house in a taxicab. The driver had given them free transportation and told them that taxicabs would be waiting at the place to take them back without charge, they declared. Returning, they had boarded another taxicab and protested when the driver tried to collect.

A policeman interrupted the argument at Third street and Broadway at 1:30 a. m. After 12 hours in jail, the men agreed to pay the bill, and were fined for disorderly conduct. They said they were Preston Katt, 24 years old, Meridian, Miss., and George Warner, 22, Houston, Miss.

SENATE GROUP TO CONSIDER MELLON'S RIGHT TO OFFICE

Norris Calls Judiciary Committee to Meet Tomorrow for Eligibility Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Senate Judiciary Committee was summoned today by Chairman Norris to meet tomorrow to consider the inquiry ordered previously into the right of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to continue in office.

Plans for the investigation will be determined at the meeting. It is the desire of some members that Mellon be called before the committee to detail his property holdings.

The resolution of Senator Mc-Kellar (Dem.), Tennessee, ordering the inquiry asked the Judiciary Committee to determine whether the Secretary was not serving in violation of an old statute forbidding a Secretary of the Treasury to be interested in trade or business.

The resolution also asked for a report as to whether a Cabinet officer may continue in office from one administration to another without reconsideration of his nomination by the Senate.

Mr. Hoover did not send to the Senate the name of either Mellon or James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, who remained in the Hoover Cabinet as holdovers from the Coolidge Cabinet.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acid which clogs the kidney pores so that they sluggish filter and strain only part of the urine and poison from the blood. When you get sick, Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acid in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can now injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithium-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

MISSOURI LABOR SITUATION IMPROVES

Spring Activities Likely to Absorb Surplus in Month, Survey Indicates.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—With in 30 days the surplus of skilled and unskilled labor in Missouri should be absorbed when spring activities and building programs get under way, the Labor Employment Service announces.

"More favorable weather in March resulted in a decided improvement in the Missouri employment situation," the announcement states. "Slight decreases were noted in meat-packing houses, due to seasonal factors. Railroad repair shops, automobile assembling plants, drug and chemical establishments, lead and zinc mines and wholesale hardware houses registered substantial increases to forces compared with the previous month."

There was a brisk demand for experienced farm help and a survey of highway and municipal projects indicated a large number of skilled laborers would be needed, the announcement continues.

The following report was made on cities and towns of the State:

St. Louis—Employment in all lines increased and the surplus of resident unskilled labor is gradually being absorbed by agricultural requirements and other outdoor work. There is, however, a large number of nonresident unskilled laborers, which always appears in the early spring months. Normal employment was reported in boot and shoe factories, drug and chemical establishments, wholesale hardware houses, groceries, lumber mills, railroad shops and automobile assembling plants. Slight seasonal decreases were noted in flour mills and meat-packing houses. While construction operations are proceeding on a satisfactory scale the supply of building trades men remained plentiful.

Kansas City—Satisfactory industrial conditions prevailed for this time of the year, with an optimistic employment outlook. Gains were noted in some lines, compared with February, notably building and railroads. Building trades men were in better demand, with the supply sufficient to proceed with preparations for spring work and signs pointing to an increasing demand for competent farm help during April. There was a slight falling off in employment in mail-order houses. Nearly all concerns in the North Kansas City industrial district reported employment normal for this season of the year.

St. Joseph—There was a fair demand for farm help. Normal employment was reported in cereal mills, railroads and other leading industries. The employment outlook for the spring months is favorable.

Hannibal—Local industries employed forces normal for this time of the year. There was a better demand for building trades men than in February. Good demand for experienced farm labor reported.

Springfield—The railroads reported better employment in the shops than in the previous month. Resident building trades men were fairly well engaged, with improvement expected in all lines. Farm help was in good demand.

Joplin—Local conditions are better than for some months, due to increased employment in lead and zinc mines in this vicinity. The surplus of skilled and unskilled labor decreased.

Archbishop Outlines Terms

FOR OBTAINING INDULGENCE
Plenary Grant Made by Pope in Commemoration of Fiftieth Anniversary in Priesthood.

Conditions for obtaining the jubilee plenary indulgence, granted in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the priesthood of Pope Pius XI, were read to Catholic congressmen yesterday in the form of a letter from the Archbishop Glennon. They include visits to designated churches, prayers for the Pope, fasting and abstaining, confession, holy communion and alms giving.

Six visits to churches are required, two to the parish church and two each to two other churches. The visits need not be made all in one day. In districts where churches are widely separated, the visits may all be made in the same church.

A plenary indulgence "affords the remission of the entire temporal punishment due to sin so that no further expiation is required in purgatory."

EJECTION OF MAN FROM SALOON LEADS TO RAID BY POLICE

Jack Jansen, a foreman, 4218 Oregon avenue, was found on the sidewalk in front of 2300 De Kalb street at 1:15 p. m. yesterday, suffering from lacerations, scalp wounds and acute alcoholism. At the City Hospital he told police he had been ejected from a saloon at 2715 De Kalb street.

At the saloon police arrested the proprietor, Ernest Ruth, and a customer, Hugo W. Carpenter, 3310 South Broadway, who, police reported, tried to hide two pint bottles of whisky when the officers entered. Two other customers also were arrested. Ruth admitted, police said, that he had ejected Jansen, but denied he assaulted the man.

Bethel, Maine—"My nephew has a severe skin trouble which covered his face, hands and whole body. His skin became raw from scratching. Many remedies were tried without success—then Resinol Soap and Ointment were prescribed. The first few applications stopped the itching, and soon he was entirely healed. My Sis,
WHITNEY'S ENTRY IS ONE, TWO IN FIRST RACE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 15.—Over a dead track and in a light drizzle, William F. Scheid's My Sis, grouped in the field with Poly and Single Step, was winner of the Hartford Handicap, which featured the opening of the Havre de Grace track here today. My Sis, on her Bowie form, was rated high by the players and was wagered on accordingly. She ran one of the fastest races she has ever shown. Jock, carrying top weight, was second and the Sagamore Stable's Night Life third and Balko, coupled with the former, fourth. The winner received $58.50, and paid $18.30 for $2 in the mutuels. Finite finished next to last and The Heather last.

The start was good and The Heather and Finite got the jump on the field and drew away. They alternated in the lead to the middle of the track, where My Sis moved up and joined the issue. It was anyone's race, as the field turned into the stretch. It was a hard drive to the wire and My Sis got her nose in front right at the end. Jock beat Night Life a head for the place.

The time was 1:13 for the six furlongs. The opening day was marred by very bad weather. There was a drizzle all afternoon, and it was cold and raw. However, it is estimated that more than 10,000 were on hand.

Harry Payne, Whitney's entry, ran one, two in the opening race. Dress Ship and Moonstruck were the Whitney entry and they finished in that order with Moonstruck third. The entry paid $2.26 straight and $2.30 placed. The start was good. Partisan went into the lead and was in front at the stretch turn, where he ran out and then Moonstruck took the lead. He led to the final sixteenth, when Dress Ship came along and won easily by a length and a half. Moonstruck was second by a like distance, while Wrackell was third.

The Sagamore Stable put over its first winner when Sun Broom won the second event, defeating the odds-on favorite Leucite, with Port Harlan third. There was a lot of rough riding in the stretch and Port Harlan and Sun Broom were both interfered with, when Leucite drew over to the rail. Port Harlan, Sun Broom and Leucite ran head and head for the entire trip, but in the final drive Sun Broom drew away to win handily by a length and a half. Leucite beat Port Harlan a length for the place. The unexpected victory of Sun Broom resulted in a refund of $27.80 for $2 in tickets. McLean Wins One.

E. B. McLean, the Washington sportsman, put over the winner of the third when his colt, Greenock, well played, scored in a drive over Contemptible with Maxine third. The start was good and Greenock started at his best. Greenock drew away in the stretch to win by half a length. Contemptible beat Maxine three lengths for the place. Hypnotism, after running third all the way, was heat in the last few strides by Maxine for the show. Fermis rode the winner.

Rock Slide was an easy winner of the fifth. George De Mar was second and Miliaris third. Miliaris went into an easy lead and set a fast pace for six furlongs, then tired. Rock Slide assumed command on the turn and won by half a length. Contemptible beat Maxine three lengths for the place. Hypnotism, after running third all the way, was heat in the last few strides by Maxine for the show. Fermis rode the winner.

KAISER AND RIVERS MEET IN FEATURE BOUT AT COLISEUM, TONIGHT

RES. BARNARD
TO SEE SENATORS
START CAMPAIGN

CHICAGO, April 15.—With the Yankee menace still casting its shadow across the pennant horizon and chilling interest, the American League tomorrow launches what promises to be just another one-sided championship.

Three years straight and six in eight years have Babe Ruth and his Yankees blasted their way to the championship. American League officials and club owners and managers, admit they and the box office receipts are a bit weary of prolonged Yankee domination, but the "experts" by predicting a tight race from the first coin call of "play ball" tomorrow to the last game in October, it is generally to Philadelphia, team that gave the Yankees a rare last year; St. Louis, a combination of fair hitting strength and great defensive power; Washington, a great offensive team with Walter Johnson at its helm; Detroit, with several heavy stars, and the brain of Buckey Harris, that they look for breaking in. The present surge of other entries—Chicago's weak, erratic fielding White Sox, Cleveland's mysterious Indians, Boston's mediocre team, are expected to cause much trouble.

The piece de resistance of to-day's four-game menu will be a clash between Philadelphia and Washington at the capital. President Herbert Hoover is expected to start hostilities by throwing out the first ball. Official Washington President E. S. Barnard of American League will attend contest. "Lefty" Grove probably will get Philadelphia's pitcher assignment, being opposed by veteran, "Sad Sam" Jones.

Waite Hoyt has always been a star for Miller Huggins and Yankees so he has been chosen to mound duty against the Boston Red Sox at New York. Charley Ring or Jack Russell are the probable starting pitchers for Boston, which will have newcomers in the field. Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis and another baseball-hungry crowd will watch that affair.

Upset by injuries during its unsuccessful training season, Detroit's starting lineup and pitchers are somewhat of a mystery. The Tigers open their campaign at Cleveland. Joe Shantz is expected to draw Cleveland's initial assignment.

The White Sox-Browns opener in St. Louis marks a mound duel between Alphonse Thomas and Jim Gray of St. Louis. The one matter that remained a conjecture today and that was the weather.

Throughout the East, fair weather was expected for the opening day, but rain was feared in Cleveland and St. Louis.

Although there is no Benny Bass Davis Abad among the contestants, boxing program at Coliseum promises to produce a sort of malling that will stir the crowd. Johnny Kaiser meets Rivers in the main event of a bout program.

River and Rivers have had one meeting. Rivers was better on that occasion, frustrating Peewee's attempts to score a knockout blow and at same time digging in with a strong body attack. Neither showed any signs of injury at conclusion although Rivers virtually out on his feet in last round from a right cross across the jaw. Unofficially, the bout ended a draw.

Two interesting examples are the Browns and the Tigers and both of them could use an infielder of outstanding quality and afford to pay a real price. If the Browns could find a third-sacker who could hit about .310 for the season the team's owner would well afford to sign a blank check and let the player fit it in for himself.

That's because Dan Howley apparently has not drawn an ace among the new cards dealt him for the infield. Daniel wants Frank O'Rourke at second base but he can't use him there because among his eight or nine infielders, none has shown ability to hold down the third base job except O'Rourke himself. The second base material is uncertain or mediocre, on its record.

Thus the team will start its campaign with the infield of last year—acceptable defensively and weak offensively. With one outstanding hitter in the infield, Blue, O'Rourke and Kress would complete a sufficiently dangerous quartet. As it stands now the four who will take the field on last year's performance, would bat under .250 as a group. That places a terrific burden on the outfield hitting, too great to be shouldered, seemingly.

So bring on the hitting infield.

But—try and find him, first; then try to buy him.

Tigers in Hard Luck

THE Tigers are in even worse case than the Browns and will start the season with a makeshift infield defense. Navin would gladly lay $100,000 on the line for a suitable infielder.

New York is also worried about its infield future with Lazzeri still a question and shortstop and third base a maybe or an uncertain case.

Infield shortage is nothing new. One of the great difficulties of baseball team building has been to find infielders who can hit as well as field. Seldom do infielders rise to remarkable heights as hitters, although there have been some notable examples at second base and occasionally at first base. History reveals very few shortstops and third sackers, especially in days before the "rabbit ball," who graduated into the .300 division.

The Tigers have considerable hitting strength, however, and could afford to take on a great defensive infielder who had only ordinary hitting power. But Bucky Harris will have trouble finding even a punchless infield star.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Wanted an Infielder.

If, in his recently developed plan for creating free agents, Commissioner Landis could throw on the market one perfectly good infielder, able to hit about .300 and look good on defense, that player could sell himself for a princely sum, say, amount in the American League at any rate. Scarcely a team in the circuit today can say it is without an infield problem and in one or two or three instances the situation is acute.

Two interesting examples are the Browns and the Tigers and both of them could use an infielder of outstanding quality and afford to pay a real price. If the Browns could find a third-sacker who could hit about .310 for the season the team's owner would well afford to sign a blank check and let the player fit it in for himself.

PENNOCK AND ROUSH RATED
AS LUXURIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Regardless of whatever may be their station in life during the 1929 season, the two New York Clubs at least will enjoy the distinction of supporting the most extravagant luxuries that ever sat on a player's bench—and sat and sat and sat. That, anyhow, will be the situation at the start of the season, for it now appears certain that neither Harry Pennock nor Eddie Roush will be numbered among those identified with the interest of the Yankees and giants respectively for some weeks at least.

Pennock draws an annual salary of about $20,000 from the Yankees while the Giants have taken a rap of $21,000 for every semester that Roush has graced the local payroll since the George Kelly trade with the Reds late in 1926. While totting up what we may call the expensive expenditures, the Brooklyn club also rates a little honorable mention for the high rate of interest it has been paying on the investment represented by Glenn Wright.

Wright's Case

If Wright plays no more baseball than he has been able to indulge in with the Judge's date to date, it may mean the end of Wilbert Johnson, manager of the club. Wright turned up with a sore arm and, as last reports still had it. However, the possibility exists that medical treatment and warm weather may make Wright the ball player he was and still can be.

Pennock's case, unlike those of Roush and Wright, reflects in no way upon the sagacity of the management which employs him. He isn't worth $20,000 on the bench, obviously, but the club is glad to pay that much and more for the right to hope that he won't be on the bench indefinitely. Besides, if Pennock never throws another ball, the Yanks will be away ahead of themselves with this player. Until he contracted neuritis in his shoulder late last season, Pennock easily was the greatest left hand pitcher the game has known since Waddell and Plank.

Zach Wheat has announced his permanent retirement from baseball. Indicating that Wheat was wrong and time is

He scored a 74 in a drizzling rain over the Lakeside course to lead the championship flight. He lost to Emmett Rogers in the second round.

Norman's stellar performer, Dan Webster, started the year off rather auspiciously when he turned his home club's course in 68 strokes in qualifying for the University of Oklahoma's team.

FARRELL PRAISES HORTON SMITH BUT PICKS HAGEN TO WIN 'OPEN'

VAST CROWDS AT MUIRFIELD MAY UPSET JOPLIN YOUTH'S GAME

By Johnny Farrell

American Open Golf Champion. (Written shortly before Champion Farrell left for England with the United States Ryder Cup team aboard the S. S. Mauretania, last Wednesday.)

NEW YORK, April 15.—America's golfing expeditionary forces will soon be on the high seas Europe-bound, seeking new laurels for the cradleland of the royal and ancient pastime of pitching and putting.

Every one of the 16 men of the Ryder Cup squad is personally ambitious and wondering, no doubt, what the immediate future holds in store for us. Collectively, the objective is the Ryder Cup, the international professional trophy that Sam Ryder, one of the true lovers of a noble sport, placed in competition some years ago to determine the bi-yearly supremacy of American or British golf. The boys naturally are keen to retain the silver bauble they won decisively at Worcester two years ago. I do not mind, in the least, that we will bring it back with us.

The Great Individual Prize.
Individually, however, the ambitions of the boys center on the British open championship, the classic of golf that is so strongly bulwarked with tradition. There is glory and gold to be had in the winning of this ancient tournament. Every one of us, perhaps, visualizes himself, at the end of two days of stormy strife, being acclaimed by the multitude at Muirfield.

Who will win? I cannot say.

(Copyright, 1929.)

Expect Hagen to Win.

The favorite on the American team is Walter Hagen, its captain, who is still a master, despite the encroaching years. Walter plays best in England than he does at home. I do not know why, but I have the suspicion that it is because he responds to admiration. He is idolized. He has won the British open championship three times, and they love him for his success. Hagen is the born showman. He performs best when the crowds are thickest. That should be of vast help to his play at Muirfield.

Who will win? I cannot say.

and neither can anyone else. Some of the boys think Morton Smith, with that imperturbable air of his, will cop the victory. There is something so cool and complacent about this tall, likable lad from Joplin, Mo., that one is made to respect him deeply. He's a great guy, if you ask me, and great in more ways than one. His golf is a game of fine precision, unburdened and vast power, but it is his matter-of-fact acceptance of every situation that has us all stumped.

At 21 Horton has the poise and the savoir faire of the veteran campaigner. All the hullabaloo that has been occasioned by his remarkable string of victories on the golf circuit has not changed him a bit. He is the same as when he first came to our big parties, unheralded and unsung. His head is not a bit larger. He takes the plaudits and the praise with a quiet smile.

Smith will carry his baffling composure into the British open. He may win, but I doubt it. The change in climate, the great crowds, the sternness of Muirfield cannot but have some effect upon one so young and inexperienced in international warfare. There is a terrible strain attached to play in a great open championship.

The crowds get to be an enormous mental hazard. If you are out in front on the last day, the whole throng dogs your footsteps and leaves everybody else almost entirely alone. The crowds are greater than in America, because the admission fee is very small. A gallery of 25,000 is still unknown in America, but common in Great Britain.

Expect Hagen to Win.

JACK DEMPSEY SAYS HE IS READY TO FIGHT AGAIN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Jack Dempsey has admitted that he is ready to fight again—this year. Thus he fulfills a prediction made a few weeks ago when Dempsey formed his partnership with Humbert Fugazy and Edwin Cole.

Elmo Shropshire, the blond lad who rode so many winners for Phil Reuter at Fairmount last year, is riding in Maryland now but he has a new boss. Reuter did not go east and Shropshire's services have been obtained temporarily by Guy Bedwell, which means the boy will get a lot of good mounts.

It has been announced definitely that "Pony" McAtee, one of the turf's greatest riders, will be astride Clyde Van Dusen in the Kentucky Derby. Mack Garner will ride E. R. Bradley's Blue Larkspur, the "stand out" horse of the field.

Another successful jockey has quit the saddle and turned trainer. Following the example of Earl Sande, J. Callahan has established his own stable, principal member of which is Wild Heart, an English bred filly, a half sister to Justice F., winner of the New Orleans Handicap of 1928.

The western tracks probably will see more of the Rancocas Stable this year than formerly. Trainer Sam Hildreth has added to his staff of assistants John Lowe, who formerly trained for W. R. Coe and it is understood that Lowe will handle a western division of the Rancocas string. This is the stable owned by Harry F. Sinclair. He has nominated for the Fairmount Derby four colts: Mei Foo, Leucite, Simba and Expedite. All are eligible for the Preakness on May 10.

"Yes, I am going to lay out a training program just as soon as we get our summer promotion plans under way," he said. "I feel good and I'm getting the old fever again. Right now I can't say what will develop, but I may fight this year if I can get the proper hook-up with an outstanding contender."

Dempsey has made various training gestures that were fashioned mostly for ballyhoo purposes. This is his desire of the future. He notes that he has been in high physical welfare in several months of hot-sopht promotion activities and just as soon as he gets his early summer campaign under way he will take up a gymnasium program.

It was a cinch that the old champion would begin barking at the garden variety of heavyweights sooner or later, but his first significant move was made a few days ago, when he was interviewed before a radio " mike" in Chicago. Jack told his air audience that he

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 15.—Purdue and Illinois opened their Big Ten Conference baseball season during the last week with victories, the former defeating Northwestern, 7 to 4, while the latter won over Iowa, 3 to 1, in a 10-inning affair. As a result, Purdue and Illinois are tied for first place with Indiana. The Hoosiers have won over Ohio State, 4 to 2, the preceding week. Chicago and Michigan will join the race this week, while Minnesota and Wisconsin will enter the campaign next week.

Six games will be played this week, starting Wednesday, with Northwestern opening Michigan's conference schedule at Ann Arbor. On Friday Ohio State will play at Indiana, while on Saturday Northwestern will play at Illinois. Iowa at Michigan, Chicago at Indiana and Ohio State at Purdue.

During the last week Illinois and Iowa played a strong game for early season. Twogood, Iowa twirler, held Illinois to two hits in the first nine innings, but blew up in the tenth frame and Illinois won the game. Iowa's pitcher, however, was erratic, heldman of Northwestern allowing 11 hits and McReynolds and Schupp of Purdue allowed 12 safeties.

How this famous remedy achieves its victories over the most obstinate cases; what it means to all who suffer, is being explained daily in St. Louis by the Konjola Man, who is meeting the public at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street. Meet the Konjola Man; get the facts; learn exactly why Konjola is astounding the drug and medical world with its amazing success. See what this master medicine has done and is doing for others; read the absorbing statement of Mrs. W. A. Mechling, a prominent St. Louisian, 517 Hamill avenue, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"It affords me great pleasure to have this opportunity to recommend Konjola, for I feel in doing so that I am helping others who may be in poor health and seeking relief from pain and suffering. I am well acquainted with the merits of this medicine for it benefited me when I suffered from rheumatism and constipation. For years these diseases had been the bane of my life. I took all kinds of descriptions of medicines and treatments but the pains and swelling did not disappear. My hands were swollen and the pains practically unbearable. Impaired bowel action caused poisons to accumulate in my system and make matters all the worse. The strongest laxatives failed to give more than temporary relief. It was a most discouraging situation, and I was at a loss to know what to do next."

"Many of my friends recommended Konjola to me, but I was skeptical and put off taking this medicine. Of course, that was the wrong thing, but at that time I didn't know it. I realized that something had to be done, and when all else failed I decided to give Konjola a chance. It was the last resort. Imagine my surprise and pleasure when Konjola was the right work, just as I was told it would be. The very first bottle made an immediate change and from then on I steadily grew better. The swelling and soreness began leaving and soon disappeared entirely. Another bottle and I was freed of rheumatism and constipation. Regular action eliminated the poisons and invigorated my organs. I feel better today than I have for years, and every bit of the health I now enjoy I owe to Konjola—the master medicine."

An unusual case, you ask? Not a bit of it. The record of Konjola is made up of countless instances like this. That is why Konjola is known as the master medicine of them all.

WIRE-HAIRED TERRIER DOG SHOW CHAMPION

Trainer With Burleson Banker and Prize in Arms Dashes for Train.

A diminutive, white-wire-haired terrier was declared grand champion of the seventeenth annual bench show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club last night after several hundred big and little dogs had been examined and put through their paces by the official judges.

Spectators ignored the many caned animals on exhibit during the last night of the show and crowded about the judging ring during the eliminations which closed the three-day event. During three hours that dogs of varying breed and appearance were brought into the ring, they watched with intense interest until the final contest when Burleson Banker, 2-year-old terrier, owned by F. B. Lord of New York City, was awarded the championship cup.

A Prize Armful.

With the cup under one arm and Burleson Banker under the other, the terrier's trainer dashed from the arena and promptly deposited his charge in a shipping case. Standing by, he parried questions with the explanation that the owner was averse to publicity and had given his positive instructions that his dog must not be photographed.

In the arena, as the eliminations drew to a close, private owners and professional breeders one by one removed their exhibits and their ribbons from the Coliseum as the chances for first honors vanished. Because of the rain and the chill air, toy dogs were tenderly wrapped and even big dogs were hurriedly whisked into waiting automobiles.

During the closing hours, the judges reduced the prospective champions to five dogs. Burleson Banker was declared the best terrier; Lochinvar Bonnie, an English setter, owned by Chauncey W. Shelton, Sedro-Woolley, Wash., best sporting; Akro von Sadowberg, a shepherd or German police dog, owned by the Jessford Kennels, Roslyn, N. Y., best working; Brightstone Copper Maid, a pomeranian, owned by Mrs. Nat Goldstein, St. Louis, best toy, and San Kee Toi of Fan Shu, a chow chow, owned by the Fan Shu Kennels, Eldorado, Ill., best non-sporting.

At the Working Dogs.

With more than 70 German shepherds competing for first honors in the working dog class, field trials continued from shortly after noon until a few minutes before the grand championship contest was begun. While other class contests were confined to physical examination, walking and running, the police dog trials in a special ring, included retrieving, jumping, attacking, guarding objects and prisoners, as well as the standard tests.

A list of dogs which were awarded first prizes in various breeds during the morning and afternoon judging yesterday follows:

Newfoundland—Paddy's Knight, owned by Louis R. Padberg, 2819 South Grand boulevard, St. Louis.

Doberman Pinschers—Gusti von Tannenhaus, owned by Verne Buck, Chicago.

FLEECES CLERK OUT OF $20
BILL BY ENVELOPE TRICK

Man Apparently Returns Money to Her When She Finds Pile of Change.

After buying a loaf of bread in a bakery at 2311 Park avenue Saturday night, a young man showed the clerk, Miss Frances Paglagen, an envelope addressed to a woman in Des Moines, Ia., and bearing a special delivery stamp.

The man asked for a $20 bill to put in the envelope and tendered what he said was $20 in change. While Miss Paglagen was counting the change, he took the bill and sealed the envelope. Informed that the change amounted to only $19, the man apologized, took back the change, handed the envelope to Miss Paglagen and asked her to hold it until he could go home and get another dollar.

Miss Paglagen thought she had seen the man seal the $20 bill in the envelope, but when he did not return she opened it and found only strips of newspaper.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The new farm bill, drafted by the House Agriculture Committee, with the view of setting forth a basic agricultural relief program for the Hoover administration, was introduced in the House today and immediately referred back to that committee by Speaker Longworth for the formality of official approval.

The final draft of the bill was passed by the committee yesterday. The completion of the bill, and its approval by the committee, a vote of 19 to 2, made it certain that the House would have a definite legislative proposal before the end of the session.

The Senate committee still has a measure in the form of a bill, and a second meeting today was postponed because Chairman McNary and other members of the committee expect to have a communication from Secretary Hyde, giving the administration's views on the export debt bill.

The new House bill would set up a Federal Board with a $500,000,000 revolving fund to promote the effective marketing of agricultural products. The measures described by members of the committee as being in accord with the views of President Hoover changed only in minor respects from the form in which the original draft was drawn.

The two dissenting votes in the committee were those of Representative Jones of Texas and Nelson of Missouri, both of whom voted against the bill.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The text of the new House Farm Relief bill follows:

A bill to establish a Federal Farm Board to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce, and to place agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries.

It is enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that it is hereby declared to be the policy of Congress (1) to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce, so that the industry of agriculture will be placed on a basis of economic equality with other industries; and (2) to that end to protect, control and stabilize the prices of interstate and foreign commerce in the marketing of agricultural commodities and their food products by minimizing speculation, preventing inefficient and wasteful methods of distribution, and limiting undue and excessive price fluctuations; by encouraging the organization of producers into co-operative associations and promoting the establishment and financing of a farm marketing system of producer-owned and producer-controlled co-operative associations and other agencies; and by aiding in preventing and controlling surpluses in any agricultural commodity through orderly production and distribution, so as to maintain advantageous domestic markets and prevent such surpluses from unduly depressing prices for the commodity. The Federal Farm Board shall exercise the powers vested in it, by this act only in such manner as will, in the judgment of the Board, aid to the fullest practicable extent in carrying out the policy above declared.

Sec. 2 (A) A Federal farm board is hereby created which shall consist of a chairman and five other members to be appointed by the President, by and with advice and consent of the Senate; and of the Secretary of Agriculture, ex officio. The chairman shall serve at the pleasure of the President. The terms of office of the appointed members, except of the chairman, first taking office after the date of the approval of this act, shall expire, as designated by the President at the time of nomination, two at the end of the second year, two at the end of the fourth year, and one at the end of the sixth year, and thereafter successively to an appointed member, except by the chairman, shall serve for a term expiring six years from the date of the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy in the committee shall serve for a term expiring six years from the date of the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy in the board occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term. The President may designate any appointed member of the board to act as chairman in case of the absence or disability of the chairman. The board may function notwithstanding the vacancies, and a majority of the appointed members of the board shall constitute a quorum. Each appointed member shall be a citizen of the United States, and shall not actively engage in any other business, vocation, or employment than that of serving as a member of the board. Each appointed member shall receive a salary of $12,000 a year, except the chairman, whose salary shall be fixed by the President. Each appointed member shall receive necessary traveling and subsistence expenses, or per diem allowances in lieu thereof, within the limitations prescribed by law, while away from his official station upon official business.

Sec. 3. (A) Functions of Board.

The Farm Board was described as the most powerful marketing board ever set up in the history of the world. It would have five members with a chairman and the Secretary of Agriculture as an ex officio member. They would be chosen by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, except for the chairman whose salary would be fixed by the Chief Executive. The members would receive $12,000 a year. Two of the members would serve two years; one four years, and the fifth for six years. Their successors would be chosen for six years.

The board, after classifying the various commodities, would invite co-operative associations to establish an advisory commodity committee of seven members of whom at least two would be experienced handlers or processors of the commodity. The members of this committee, which would present the commodity before a board in matters pertaining to it, would be chosen by the co-operative associations.

Among the various other functions of the Farm Board would be to promote education in co-operative marketing, to keep advised on price experiences, prospects, supply and demand; investigate production, land utilization, reduction of acreage, need for irrigation and reclamation, the methods of expanding markets, developing by-products, and the effect of transportation on marketing.

Board to Fix Interest Rate.

All loans made from the revolving fund would bear interest at rates fixed by the board. They would be made to co-operative associations to aid in marketing, for purchase of marketing facilities and to form clearing house associations to extend their membership.

In addition, the board would be authorized to insure co-operative associations against loss through price declines on commodities regularly traded in on an exchange which would supply accurate price records on which to calculate the loss and fix the premium.

The board would be prohibited from making loans which it might or types of the commodity as to require, in the judgment of the board, treatment as a separate commodity under this act; or (2) any two or more agricultural commodities which are so closely related in use or marketing methods as to require, in the judgment of the board, joint treatment as a single commodity under this act.

(B) The Board shall invite the co-operative associations handling any agricultural commodity to establish an advisory commodity committee to consist of seven members, of whom at least two shall be experienced handlers or processors of the commodity, to represent such commodity before the Board in matters relating thereto. Members of each such committee shall be selected by the co-operative associations from time to time in such manner as the Board shall prescribe. No salary shall be paid to committee members, but the Board shall pay such a per diem compensation not exceeding $20 for attending committee meetings authorized by the Board and for time devoted to other business of the committee authorized by the Board, and necessary travel and subsistence expenses, or per diem allowances in lieu thereof, within the limitations prescribed by law for civilian employees in the executive branch of the Government.

Sec. 4. The board is authorized, upon application of any co-operative associations, and of the Advisory Commodity Committee for the commodity to enter into agreements, subject to the conditions hereinafter specified, for the insurance of the co-operative associations against loss through price decline in the agricultural commodity handled by the associations and produced by the members thereof. Such agreements shall be entered into only if, in the opinion of the board, (1) coverage is not available from private agencies at reasonable rates, (2) the insurance will be in furtherance of the policy declared in section 1, and (3) the agricultural commodity is regularly traded upon an exchange.

(C) The board is authorized, upon application of any co-operative associations, and of the Advisory Commodity Committee for the commodity to enter into agreements, subject to the conditions hereinafter specified, for the insurance of the co-operative associations against loss through price decline in the agricultural commodity handled by the associations and produced by the members thereof. THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the public, always remain devoted to the public, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Objects to Tiff Mining Article.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Your article on tiff mining in Washington County, appearing April 5, to my mind is typical of the correspondent who makes a practice of selecting the extreme, and who knows but little of the people and country of whom he writes.

While there is exploitation of the natives by the mining companies—and your reporter might have rendered a real service by exposing it in detail rather than drawing a generalization—the conditions described are not in any way typical of the whole region. Two-thirds of Union Township does not belong to a mining company. The amount is perhaps less than one-fifth. There are no more old superstitions holding sway in the Ozarks than among any other group of Missourians. Doctors from De Soto and Potosi do not need to travel in buggies except perhaps in very rare instances. It does not require three or four weeks of tiff mining to pay for a doctor's call.

The many inaccuracies in the article twist what there is of truth in such a manner that the reader who does not know Washington County and the Ozarks gets an entirely erroneous impression. The whole region is not changing slowly, as anyone who has known it a few years can testify.

Your reporters could do the Ozarks a real service by presenting actual facts or typical conditions, rather than selecting extreme cases and playing them up as general characteristics of a region. As it is they serve only to widen the breach based on misunderstanding and false conceptions that exists between many of the people of St. Louis and the rural sections of our State.

The Gann Squabble.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
AFTER the squabble in Washington over the seating of Mrs. Gann, I feel sure she will enjoy her dinners immensely.

But doesn't the whole thing seem rather absurd?

It does seem to me that being compelled to fight for a certain place at the table would kill the spirit of the whole affair. But after a few rounds have been drunk, I presume all will be equal:

JUST A VOTER.

Mr. Burnett and the Moon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your issue of the fifth instant, Mr. Burnett of Paris, Mo., contributes an amusing article on the influence of the moon on vegetation. In reading his letter, I was led to the conclusion that he belongs to that long line of lustrous investigators who put a poker in a fire to stop a screech owl from hollering, and who, when starting on a journey, and forgetting something, would make a cross mark in the road and spit in it, to keep from having bad luck. No one doubts the sincerity of Mr. Burnett in his old-fashioned superstition regarding the influence of the moon on things terrestrial, of course. As a proof of the correctness of his belief, he cited the fact that the moon causes tides, and, therefore, why not affect vegetation?

I wonder if Mr. Burnett ever heard of Sir Isaac Newton, who showed that every particle of matter in the universe attracts every other particle, with a force exactly proportioned to the product of their masses, and inversely as the square of the distance between them? The moon raises sensible tides, because it is the only celestial body in close proximity to the earth, and because the particles of water are such that they move freely among themselves, and yield readily to the attraction of the moon, while the solid parts of the earth can not.

Perhaps Mr. Burnett knows that the sun, as well as the moon, raises tides, but because of its distance, its tides are not as sensible as those of the moon. And as to that, every star in space has a tide-raising effect on the great waters of the earth, but because of the infinity of their distance, they are absolutely negligible. This is true to the law of inverse proportion. This is not a guess, but stands the test of the most rigid scientific investigation. Does Mr. Burnett know that regardless of the place, the moon holds the same absolute relations to the earth? That we must pass under it once each 24 hours, whether dark or light? Scientists may not be right all the time in all things, but they can never be less right than the guesses of the superstitions.

Endow the Symphony Society.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
NOW that the drive for the Symphony Orchestra fund is again under way, would it not be a good thing for our St. Louis millionaires to show their good will towards this grand organization and contribute the money to create an endowment fund, or such income would be sufficient to make our Symphony Orchestra permanent? This would be a lasting monument to our beloved City of St. Louis and to the citizens who would make this suggestion possible.

A MUSIC LOVER.

SAVING THE COUNTRY'S OIL

The Hoover administration is undertaking a difficult task in the matter of formulating an oil conservation policy, but it is doing it with energy and determination and the hearty support of public opinion. There are legal obstacles to be overcome, and constitutional restraints, as regards the assumption of power by the Federal Government, which cannot safely be swept aside, but the fact remains that, on the grounds of self-preservation, the present reckless operations of the oil industry must be curbed and the criminal waste of an indispensable commodity must be eliminated.

Secretary Wilbur of the Interior states an obvious truth when he says that "negative action will not cure the prime difficulty—the rapid waste of our oil resources." In a letter to the American Petroleum Institute he proposes, as a positive method, "the initial control of development through the control of drilling, to the end that, upon the discovery of a new oil pool a plan for its development should be established which would prevent the waste of gas, the consequent loss of gas pressures and its serious effect upon the total yield of the pool." Such a plan, he says, has the approval of the Federal Oil Conservation Board and a "considerable part of the industry." It has the approval of all intelligent citizens familiar with the orgy of waste characteristic of every oil discovery.

Mr. Wilbur has a plan for putting such a regulatory plan into effect. He proposes that the oil-producing states enter into a compact by which they would all adopt the same regulations. The Federal Government, through congressional action, would have to be party to the agreement. How that can be done will, he admits, require much consideration. He thinks it practicable for the Federal Government and the oil states to create a joint board with the requisite authority to function. As to that point, the Federal Government and the states will have to be guided by their legal departments. Mr. Wilbur proposes to sound local sentiment by consulting the Governors of the dominant oil states.

We believe he will find those executives eager to co-operate. At any rate, the conservation plan outlined by Mr. Wilbur was in substance recommended more than 10 years ago by Oklahoma's able war Governor, R. L. Williams. Judge Williams (he was subsequently appointed to the Federal bench) was ahead of his time in perceiving and denouncing the wasteful practices of the oil industry and urging the conservation by state regulation. That the present heads of the various state governments realize the necessity of reform by concerted action may reasonably be assumed.

Anyhow, the Hoover administration has rolled up its sleeves and got to work on this enormously important job.

CONSERVATION IN MISSOURI.

It will be a loss to conservation in Missouri if the Legislature fails to provide for a Conservation Commission. There is a widespread demand for such a reform. The lower house of the Legislature has already passed a bill providing for a nonsalaried commission appointed by the Governor to take care of forestry, fish, game, recreation, and State parks.

All that is more than one man, however expert, can do. The present system also deprives Missouri of much voluntary service by able men who would gladly act in such a capacity. As the matter stands, nothing is being done to bring back the timber of the Ozarks, and the very good work that is done for fish and game is impaired by politics. All programs halt when a new Governor is elected, and none is secure against the fortunes of political parties. It ought not to be so, and in the states which have made progress in conservation it no longer is so.

Another thing the Legislature should do in this field is to make the open season for taking migratory birds conform to the Government season. Under the Missouri law it is legal to shoot these birds up to the first of May, when many of them are nesting. Such a barbarous practice can never come back, and Missouri would as well admit it. Moreover, by holding her season open so long, when almost every state in the Union has forbidden spring shooting, prejudices Missouri in the important matter of Federal co-operation in the establishment of refuges for migratory birds. The Government has adopted a far-reaching and altogether admirable policy in this matter, and Missouri can exclude herself from its benefits only by refusing to make her shooting season conform to that of the Government, that is from Sept. 23 to Jan. 7.

EXPLAINING GERTRUDE STEIN.

Max Eastman has invaded the salons of the super-intellectuals, where words cast off the reactionary shackles of dictionary definition, and has attempted to fathom the meaning of the esoteric potbooks found in the literary frenzies of Gertrude Stein and others.

In the current issue of Harper's, he reports that the "cult of unintelligibility" has as its object the use of language to conceal a meaning, as opposed to its normal use for communicating one. As an instance he gives the following sample of "Gertrudean prose":

Then the writer confesses that this ingenious and mellifluous passage was not written by Miss Stein at all, nor even by a minor modernist, but by a patient at an insane asylum. To show how Miss Stein improves on such amateurs by doing it with malice aforethought and bringing in more products of the ship garden, he quotes a genuine passage:

Any space is not quiet it is so likely to be shiny. Darkness very dark darkness is sectional. There is a way to see in onion and surely very surely rhubarb and a tomato, surely very surely there is that seed.

Mr. Eastman has little patience with those who pretend to enjoy such jargon, since only one person, the writer, can know what a passage means under this system of assigning to words new meanings or no meanings at all. But more than an elaborate pretense, as he assumes, seems to dictate their enthusiasm. Only group hypnosis could explain such publications as "transitions" (spelled with a small t), which consists entirely of printer's pi and scrambled volumes.

Meanwhile the literary godfather of Miss Stein and her cult remains unsurpassed in felicity of meaning and perfection of aimless rhythm. Her loyal slaves would do well to drop their volumes of "Tender Buttons" occasionally and read Lewis Carroll's epic beginning:

Twas brillig, and the slithy toves,
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe:
All mimsy were the borogoves,
And the mome raths outgrabe.

ST. LOUIS' TRIBUTE TO JAMES A. REED.

Former Senator James A. Reed may look upon Kansas City, where he lives, as his physical home, but his spiritual home is in St. Louis. From his first election to the United States Senate, when St. Louis gave him an astonishing vote against the eminent St. Louisan, David R. Francis, who opposed him, St. Louis has been the political stronghold of Mr. Reed. The St. Louis voters have stood by him through thick and thin. In his bitter struggles for re-election, when success seemed impossible on account of the opposition of a large section of the Democratic party, St. Louisans of all parties rallied to his support and put him over triumphantly.

Secretary Wilbur of the Interior states an obvious truth when he says that "negative action will not cure the prime difficulty—the rapid waste of our oil resources." In a letter to the American Petroleum Institute he proposes, as a positive method, "the initial control of development through the control of drilling, to the end that, upon the discovery of a new oil pool a plan for its development should be established which would prevent the waste of gas, the consequent loss of gas pressures and its serious effect upon the total yield of the pool." Such a plan, he says, has the approval of the Federal Oil Conservation Board and a "considerable part of the industry."

It has the approval of all intelligent citizens familiar with the orgy of waste characteristic of every oil discovery.

Nowhere else had Mr. Reed so many loyal followers, whose devotion to him was so intense. Nowhere else is there so much regret over the retirement of the strong, able, forceful, eloquent Senator who "stood foursquare to every wind that blew," as here in St. Louis. Those who differed from him in opinion at times, held him in respect, and all recognized him as the uncompromising defender of the constitutional principles of justice and liberty on which the republic was founded. The State of Missouri shall not see his like again in the Senate.

The dinner given him by his friends tonight, therefore, is a fitting tribute to the man and his eminent service to his State in the Senate. It will be an expression of the esteem and affection in which he is held by an overwhelming majority of the people, Republicans and Democrats alike.

In the idiom of the day financial news is "front page stuff." Everybody is reading it. It is as popular as the comics. That fascinating microcosm of public interest—the street car—tells the story. Old and young, men and women, they all turn to the market quotations. It is the same in hotel lobbies, railroad stations, wherever the crowd gathers.

Will a new school of financial writers eventually emerge, stylists as distinctive and pictorial, perhaps, as our pungent historians of sports? It seems unlikely. A sports narrative in its embellishment and tempo is necessarily a product of the imagination. The drama of the market inheres in facts and figures. Still, he were a rash person who would attempt to fix a limit on reportorial genius under the guidance of news editors acutely sensitive to the public need.

One development may be remarked. The economist of today is speaking a language we all understand. Not so long ago his medium was to many of us mostly Greek. Prof. Fisher, in the Monday Post-Dispatch, engagingly exemplifies the new method of treatment. Here is keen, quick reporting—in shining contrast with the ponderous essay of a somewhat cryptic yesterday.

Back of the market page's vogue is, obviously the fact that we have become a nation of investors, or speculators, deeply absorbed in that compelling alternative of gain and loss.

THE GREAT LAKES PUZZLE.

After Chicago's right to divert from the Great Lakes water sufficient to carry her drainage down the Illinois River has been categorically denied by the United States Supreme Court because of the protests of other lake cities that their harbors are being destroyed, we have the spectacle of the Great Lakes rising after copious rains until docks are flooded and water stands in the streets of towns.

Perhaps the low levels which have aroused so many other lake cities, and so many surrounding states, have been chiefly due, as Chicago has insisted, to subnormal rainfall. She has been for some time diverting 8500 cubic feet a second. Meanwhile, the level of the Great Lakes has exceeded six feet. The Supreme Court was unable to determine how much water she could divert without injuring her neighbors, and so remanded this matter of regulation back to the special master, Hon. Charles E. Hughes.

Rainfall is one of the most singular of all natural phenomena. It is possible that the Great Lakes have not for a long time been getting their due supply. It is at least known that in the Western country, sometimes plagued by drought, there appear to be dry cycles, occasionally covering a period of years. If the levels of the Great Lakes should rise to their normal level and remain there over a period of years, with the outlet running at full capacity, the theory that the diversion lowers them would be disproved.

The disposition of the Government has been to withhold final decision until time can testify to the case.

THE SENATOR FROM TEXAS.

Joseph Weldon Bailey was the Magnificent Lorenzo of the Senate. He lived, looked, acted, thought and spoke in the grand manner. If ever a man were a born Senator it was he. Intellectually he was sumptuous, masterful, inexhaustible. His voice was a majestic organ. On his lips the word democracy, as someone has said, was an invocation.

The glamour of youth was always his. He was admitted to the bar at 20. At 26 he was in Congress. Ten years later, at 36, he moved into the Senate, regally and logically. In that forum "Joe Bailey of Texas" swiftly expanded into a national figure. At 49 he voluntarily removed the toga, returning it to Texas in a four-hour valedictory.

That was in 1913. But he never became an ex-Senator. Back to Texas and the law he went, but not to the melancholy desuetude in which the toppled great so frequently disappear. He continued in the news. Space was always his whenever he chose to express an opinion on a current question.

History, we imagine, will not linger over his name. He was not a crusader. It was not in him to lead a forlorn hope. He had no passion for service, such as exalted some of his contemporaries, no vision, seemingly, to inspire him in the heroic mood. He believed profoundly, however, in the Constitution, revered the wisdom of the fathers, accepted literally the safeguards they erected for the rights of man and held in contempt the fads and phylacteries of the professional reformers.

Mr. Eastman has little patience with those who pretend to enjoy such jargon, since only one person, the writer, can know what a passage means under this system of assigning to words new meanings or no meanings at all. But more than an elaborate pretense, as he assumes, seems to dictate their enthusiasm. Only group hypnosis could explain such publications as "transitions" (spelled with a small t), which consists entirely of printer's pi and scrambled volumes.

Press Comment on the Kaw War

Baltimore Evening Sun thinks Mr. Stimson has already eclipsed Mr. Kellogg as a peacemaker, and the Milwaukee Journal says he has won the Nobel Prize. The Detroit News demands justice for Mr. Gann. The Chicago News thinks the despots' heel is on our shore this time sure enough, and the Washington Post thinks the Diplomatic Corps did its stuff.

THE VICE PRESIDENT'S HOSTESS

From the Washington Post.

SECRETARY STIMSON met and mastered this question with a little clear thinking. It is not for the Department of State to dictate to embassies and legations the status that shall be accorded to their guests. The department is necessarily the medium through which the precedence of diplomatic envoys is fixed, within each grade, according to seniority. In presentation of credentials. But the department has nothing to do with social affairs or with the social status of American citizens. At times Congress regulates the order of precedence of American officials, but this is only for official ceremonies.

The hostess of Vice President Curtis is his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann. The diplomatic corps having decided to accord to her the status of a wife, the social world will do likewise, without further risk of embarrassment to foreign envoys.

The action of the diplomatic corps is happy in harmony with courtesy and common sense.

DISTURBING THE PEACE.

From the Monroe County (Mo.) Appeal: I looked pretty small, however, for our State Department to concern itself with such matters, even smaller for the Vice President of our republic, to disturb the peace by protests in behalf of his sister. Even though it should result in a place farther up at the table for her, it would only intensify the social boycott and further intensify her embarrassment. A better way would have been to laugh the silly situation off and trust to Mrs. Gann's womanly graces, if she has any, to determine her rightful place in official society.

As clerk of the House Page is charged with the responsibility of all legislative routine in that body. Also, he looks after the physical property belonging to the House and attends to the wishes and convenience of members.

Every month he affixes his signature to some 3000 checks which go to the House employees and in payment for supplies.

PAGE has another duty which is by no means a small one. This is answering questions submitted by people all over the country. His daily mail is filled with inquiries for information on every conceivable subject.

Looks Like a Riot
An article by the late Harvey O'Higgins, that will appear in the May number of "Hart's Magazine" is to attract a great deal of attention. It is entitled "Allan Walt Whitman" (note the plural) and judging from advance sheets, it may well precipitate a literary riot among the intelligent. Since the "democratic movement" in poetry began only 17 years ago, the Whitman has grown enormously, running second only to that of Lincoln, and it is not uncommon to see the two names coupled in a single Whitmanian enthusiasm ("Whitmaniac" would be unkind) so far that a reasonable and attitude toward the poetry Whitman is hardly likely to do much good. Like Lincoln, good gray bard has been and practically beyond rational admiration by dominant literary men under the influence of the general mood of the time itself, of course, the fact is nothing either good or bad in the poetry Whitman. It is a social symptom, a literary judgment, and it would not be strange the inevitable reversal of the direction—now already predicted in the economic world social directions are determined—should have its effect upon the Whitman legend in good

"Walt Whitman was neither sexual, nor rough and rugged, nor truly healthy, nor lusty, nor even masculine. He was what is nowadays called a Narcissian, in love with himself, introverted, and so wrapped up in his own ego 't hat he got no free delivery of energy except in his exhibitionism. He was arrested in his sexual development very near the homosexual level, as several of his poems show; and like many another case of arrested development he was always a 'man's man.'

"It was the Narcissian impulse which dressed him up as a fashionable gentleman of great culture during one phase of his life, and as a rough and rugged workman during another period, and finally as the conspicuous 'Good, Gray Poet' in gray cape and wide-aire during his later years. He gave voice to few of the normal emotions of America. The domestic allurement and love were not in him and they are not in his poetry. What he chiefly voiced was his own egotism, swollen by the pride of a coming change in society and literary fashion, of forming his own judgments.

The following is taken from the publisher's announcement of the forthcoming article:

Mr. O'Higgins compares the debonair young Mr. Walt Whitman, editor of The Daily Aurora, the later Walt Whitman, who on the disguise of a carefree and pretended to a rough rugged demeanor, to a self-starter, a city boy. In those days he was a most agreeable gentleman, according to some, he wrote prose in imitation of Allan Poe and James Fenimore Cooper. O'Higgins says he a man's man, and that his proves him to have been a narcissist.

1842 he wrote an anonymous "Franklin Evans; or The State," dedicated to the Temple Society of the day. It published in a weekly story called "The New World," ballyhooed as "written 'exclusively' for 'The New World'" by the best novelists in this city with view to aid the reform and rescue young from the demon Intemperance.

It was written, one of his records, mostly in the room of Temperance Hall, owing to O'Higgins, Whitman afterwards told how he frequently judging by the influence that Whitman has exerted upon our writers during the past 17 years, it is the worst in him that is commonly admired. The best in him is mysticism, which is not at all in keeping with the going social mood and literary fashion.

Whether or not Harvey O'Higgins was touched by the projected idea of a coming change in society and literary fashion, is evidently a self-starter, capable of forming his own judgments.

Nearly 20 years ago, John Jay Chapman (one of the sanest critics America has produced) wrote an essay on Walt Whitman that might well be read in connection with the O'Higgins article.

THE ROYAL FAMILY ROYALLY AGREEABLE

Most Delightful Comedy Comes to Shubert as Theater Season Nears End.

THE ROYAL FAMILY, a comedy in three acts by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber presented at the Shubert Theater with the following cast:

Herbert Dean Clyde Fillmore

Kitty Dean Marjorie Wood

Gwen Penelope Hubbard

By H. H. NIEMAYER.

IGHT AT the tag end of the theatrical season, when interest in indoor drama was picking at the counterpane, "The Royal Family" arrived at the Shubert Theater last night and proved to be the most entertaining and enjoyable comedy of a theatrical year which has seen, so far as St. Louis is concerned, many pleasing stage offerings. This drama by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber puts on view an aristocratic family of the American stage, a close-up view of the Barrymores, perhaps in magnificence dishabille and shows how the artistic temperament lives and thrives in what might laughingly be called its home life. It is the Cavendish family, which is pretentious old Fanny Cavendish living in the past and itching to get back on the road again, where she and the late lamented Aubrey Cavendish knocked 'em cold in Pucciole and did $2900 in a single night in Boise City; the triumphant Julie Cavendish, who, with a fine eye to the requirements of the stage, managed to be born in Holy Week when the company was "laying off" anyway; the irresponsible Tony who flits between million-dollar movie contracts and the spoken drama and little Gwen, Julie's daughter, who retires from the stage forever—or at least long enough to give the world Aubrey Cavendish Stewart.

Those are the Cavendishes. Hanging on the coat tails of their family is Herbert Dean, brother of Fanny, who sees his slipping away before the onrush of the younger leading men. There is, too, his wife, Kitty Dean, who never could act and always will be kind to Oscar Wolfe, who has managed the dessert of the Cavendishes for the better part of half a century, put up with their vagaries, put up for their extravagances, and wheedled them onto the stage when, like all troupers they felt, momentarily, like settling down and becoming regular people.

In this semi-mad household are the servants, the hangers on, the out-of-the-profession lovers, and the army of masseurs, trainers and rubbers whose duty it is to keep the Cavendishes in trim for the exacting demands of their audiences.

Fanny lives and dies in the traditions of the stage. Tony, always in trouble, always in love and always in debt, comes home to return to his only great love, the stage. Little Gwyn consents to go back on the boards for just four or five weeks although every one knows she will stay in the life forever and bring up her baby to carry on the Cavendish name, and Julie, vowing she is through and ready to settle down in South Mississippi, a non-professional sweetheath, asks to see the manuscript of a new play which Oscar Wolfe has found, somewhere.

That, in somewhat tangled form is the story of "The Royal Family." Perhaps in type it does not sound unusual, but it is, nevertheless, a most unusual drama and it becomes doubly so in the brilliance of the lines and the magnificent playing of a perfect cast.

Halde Wright IS Fanny Cavendish breathing the very soul of the old trouper. Otto Kruger, however much John Barrymore may resemble her, has every trick of voice and gesture of "The Miss Barrymore" down perfectly, pat so that audiences, and critics, may easily be pardoned if they think they see in this superlative play and amazingly fine comedy a few from the life of the whole Barrymore clan.

Special praise must go, too, to Jefferson de Angelis, who is the Oscar Wolfe of the cast. Mr. de Angelis, old-time star of the musical comedy stage, has dealt with theater managers for many many years and he should know how to play one of them. He does. The rest of the company, great and small, is fully up to the standard set by these leading players and to miss seeing "The Royal Family" at least once this week will be to miss a rare treat.

for the snappy story. On the Ambassador's stage Ed Lowry has a good show in "Beauty Shop Blues."

Guilty, This Time.

TEXAS GUINAN has just been acquitted in New York of the charge of running a nuisance or something of the sort. Fortunately for her the jury was not shown Miss Guinan's talking picture, "Queen of the Night Clubs" which is at the Grand Central. On this film alone Tex would probably be a talking, singing, dancing affair which is vastly pleasing and amusing and Nancy and Buddy will be paid for life and there would have been no general complaint.

New York Day by Day By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 15. DARY of a modern Pepys: Up and had a snack with Harry Wagstaff Gribble, the Hoboken Mollere, and among others there were Regina Wallace, the play actress, as comely as ever; also Fred and Betty Drake. And on Forty-second street today was a hawker selling monocles on a ribbon for a florin.

The labor which was mostly twanging rubber stretched between desk knobs for an hour. And Lee Marce called along to the annoyed telephone subscriber who called in at 3 a. m. to inquire: "How do you like a call at this hour? you big bum!"

CIGARETTE smoking has become so prevalent on New York dance floors among both men and women that after each dance a sweater goes over the polished surface to gather up the ashes.

HOLLYWOOD is making Broadway a wilderness for the wise-crack. Quick-on-the-trigger cafe clowns have trekked up board to gag up the movies. All they received for lightning wit in the Broadway canyons was a grudging-free drink and an "atmosphere" sandwich. But in Hollywood gags not only bring the gagger as it goes along, arriving at a sensational finale with three husky males tossing her about the stage from one to another with hair-raising abandon.

Pepito, the Spanish clown, regales well with pantomime and expert imitations. The bride will wear a gown of white tulle made with a long bodice embroidered in seed pearls. The long sleeves of the tulle are trimmed in the seed pearl motif and the skirt composed of a series of ruffles dips to the floor at either side. She will wear a lace veil caught to her hair in a cap. Over this she will wear a second veil of tulle adorned in orange blossoms and weighted by more of the flowers. She will carry lilies of the valley, and gardenias, and her only jewelry will be a pretty bracelet studded with diamonds and emeralds, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Linneman will wear a gown of orchid point d'esprit and will carry a bouquet of spring flowers. Miss Brewer will be in yellow point d'esprit and the other bridesmaids will wear frocks of green point d'esprit. They will all carry spring flowers.

HOW TO ADD FLAVOR TO PLAIN SALADS

An Added Bit of Unusual Flavoring Makes a Dish Superfine.

A "super salad" is a salad that is just a little better than any of its "sister" salads.

Stone and chop olives and add in generous proportions to a salad made from shredded cabbage and red peppers, moistened with salad dressing.

Chop sweet pickles and add them to potato salad next time you make it. They also add much to the flavor of salmon or tuna fish salads.

Did you ever make potato salad this way? Boil the potatoes and slice them while they are hot. Chop several slices of bacon and fry until brown and crisp. Add one-fourth cup vinegar (this proportion for four medium-sized potatoes) and one teaspoon of sugar

ALMONDS AND EGGS USED IN THIS SWEET PIE CRUST

It Will Be Found Particularly Pleasing for Chocolate Tart.

In the first place it has ground almonds added to it, which is a bit startling. In the second place, there's an egg used, which is still more bewildering.

To one and one-half cups of flour, the three tablespoons of ground almonds and three tablespoons of sugar, also one teaspoon of salt, are added.

Then one-half cup of fat—any kind, it makes no great difference—is rubbed or cut into the flour mixture. Lastly add the beaten egg, and as much water as is necessary to hold things together, though this should be very little because of the egg.

As far as the rest of the process goes, it's much as usual—rolled and baked—you know.

Now, this pie crust is not for everyday use. But try it some time for tarts or for chocolate pie which, as we all know, "everybody adores."

to the hot bacon grease and pour over the potatoes. Stir in one cup of shredded lettuce and three dill pickles, thinly sliced.

Stir a couple of tablespoons of chili sauce into the mayonnaise or other salad dressing just before pouring it over the lettuce.

Place drained asparagus tips on crisp lettuce leaves. Pour over them a French dressing to which has been added a few teaspoons of chili sauce. Garnish with hard cooked eggs.

Heavenly Hash.

BREAD CRUMBS MAKE COMBINATION DISHES

Modern Cookery Utilizes the Last Crumb of Leftover Bread.

One of the great advantages of a loaf of bakers' bread is that every crumb of it may be used even unto the very last crumb.

Cookery experts have long known that bread crumbs could be advantageously utilized in combination dishes. Recently these have come into vogue, on the job of thinking up new dishes and arranging recipes for preparing the dishes, have given much time to the origination of recipes for substituting bread crumbs for other food articles in combination dishes.

Several of these new recipes will be found below:

Luncheon Dish.

Take one cup celery, one green pepper and onions in salted water five minutes; remove from fire. Cream butter and flour, add to hot cooked vegetable mixture and stir till thoroughly mixed.

In a greased casserole, put a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of vegetables; sprinkle with grated cheese. Repeat alternate layers until materials are all used, having crumbs on top. Pour over milk and bake in a moderate oven one hour.

Breakfast Spoon Bread.

To make this quick hot bread take two cups milk, two cups sifted, toasted bread crumbs, four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons brown sugar, one teaspoon salt and three tablespoons baking powder.

Scald milk; add bread crumbs, butter, sugar and salt; stir till thoroughly mixed. Beat eggs till frothy, add baking powder and beat until light, thick and lemon colored. Then over bread and milk mixture and bake in a greased casserole one hour.

Bread Crumb Pudding.

This is a dainty dessert. To make it take one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, three cups sifted bread crumbs, four tablespoons butter and two cups canned fruit and juice.

Butter casserole. Sift together sugar, salt and bread crumbs. Place a layer of crumb mixture in bottom of casserole, dot with butter and cover with a layer of fruit. Repeat alternate layers until all materials are used, having crumbs on top. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream and sauce.

Bread Crumb Torte.

Possibly you have tasted this alluring crumb cake. It is readily made with four egg yolks, one cup sugar, one teaspoon grated lemon, or orange rind, one cup toasted bread crumbs, three-fourths teaspoon baking powder, three-fourths cup almonds and four egg whites.

Beat egg yolks with half of sugar till light, thick and lemon colored, adding sugar gradually and beating constantly. Then add lemon or orange rind. Sift bread crumbs, add baking powder and sift again onto finely ground or pounded nuts. Stir until well mixed in the egg yolk mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold in remaining sugar, then fold into egg yolk mixture and bake in a moderate oven one hour.

BEGIN THE COMPANY MEAL

WITH RIPE OLIVE CANAPES

An Extremely Attractive Relish That Adds Zest to the Appetite.

Many hostesses find it agreeable to serve a canape as the first course at their formal dinner.

For this purpose nothing will be found more attractive than ripe olive canapes.

To make them, take a loaf of white bread, one loaf white bread, one-half cup soft butter, three hard-cooked eggs, one-half cup ripe olives, one-half cup mayonnaise and salt and pepper.

Cut six slices of dark bread into rounds, two inches in diameter and six one inch in diameter. Then cut six slices of white bread one and one-half inches and six one-half inch in diameter.

For the filling, make three types of pastes.

No. 1—Use chopped egg whites with enough salad dressing to spread.

No. 2—Use egg yolks, mashed fine, seasoned with pepper and mayonnaise.

No. 3—Use olives and mayonnaise thoroughly mixed together. Spread first dark layer with No. 1 paste and cover with a slice of white bread spread with No. 2 paste; cover with a dark slice of bread spread with No. 3 paste. Top with a white slice into which a sprig of parsley has been inserted with a toothpick.

Brown Gravy.

Remove meat onto serving platter. To remaining juice and fat in cooker, stir in two tablespoons browned flour; when mixed and bubbly, add one and one-half cups cold water, stirring constantly until boiling point is reached, then simmer gently 15 minutes. If care is observed, straining the gravy will not be necessary.

SMOKED BEEF TONGUE OFFERS A CHANGE

It is an Economical Buy as Every Particle May Be Used.

Those who tire of the routine of everyday meats will be glad to serve boiled tongue.

A smoked beef tongue has probably the best flavor. One weighing about four pounds is a good buy, as it will allow enough for another meal.

The smoked tongue should be soaked over night or for several hours, then boiled slowly allowing one-half hour cooking for each pound.

When done, the tongue should be skinned and the root end trimmed off. The meaty part of this can be chopped and used for sandwiches, croquettes, or combined with macaroni or rice for luncheon.

Cooked tongue in slices about one-third an inch thick. Dip in beaten egg that has been diluted with a tablespoon of cold water and seasoned with salt and pepper. Roll the slices next in fine, dry bread crumbs and brown quickly in hot fat. Drain and serve with a well seasoned tomato sauce. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

For the tomato sauce, cook two cups of tomatoes for 15 minutes with one small onion, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sugar, one whole clove and a small piece of bayleaf. Strain. Cook two tablespoons of butter with two table-spoons of flour until well blended.

Add the tomato juice and enough stock or hot water to make two cups of liquid. Cook until thickened, add more seasoning if desired and serve very hot.

STRAWBERRY CAKE FILLING IS UNUSUAL AND TEMPTING

It illustrates the Trend of Cookery Towards Combinations.

Housewives who contemplate making a layer cake within the coming week or month accept this suggestion and put the layers together with a strawberry filling made out of fresh strawberries.

Make the cake according to favorite recipe and put it together with this filling.

One cup strawberries, one cup granulated sugar, one white of egg, unbeaten.

Measure strawberries after washing and removing hulls, add sugar and eggs. Beat together with a whip egg-beater until thick as whipped cream.

This will take about 15 minutes. To be used as a filling for little sponge cakes or cream puffs. Other fruits may be used in the same manner.

APRICOT CHARLOTTE IS FINE

Occasionally We Need to Be Reminded of Old Favorites.

Rub stewed, dried apricots through a coarse strainer to make one and one-half cups of pulp. Add to it the juice of one orange and one-half cup of grated orange rind. Soak two tablespoons of gelatine in one-third cup of cold water for 10 minutes, then dissolve in one cup of boiling water. Cool and add to the apricot mixture. If not sweet enough, add sugar as necessary.

Cool the mixture until it begins to thicken and then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and one cup of whipped cream.

Pour into small molds, chill, turn out and serve plain or garnished with small triangles of sponge cake or with lady fingers.

APPETIZING SUGGESTIONS

Dainty Touches Add an Appeal to Ordinary Dishes.

Make a delicious potato soup following your favorite recipe, and just before serving, stir in tomato catsup—a tablespoon to each serving.

To give chicken soup a delightful "different" flavor, add to it a few tablespoons of olives, chopped, just before serving.

For a quick and appetizing tomato to bouillon, dissolve a bouillon cube in a cup of boiling water and stir in one teaspoon of tomato catsup. By dissolving 1 teaspoon of soft-set gelatine in each cup of bouillon prepared in this way, and placing it in a cold place to become firm, you have a delicious jellied bouillon.

STUFFED BREAST OF LAMB

Make a bread dressing according to preferred recipe. Cut a pocket in the breast of lamb close to the bone. Wipe the meat thoroughly with a damp cloth, then stuff with the dressing. Skewer or sew up the opening. Place in a roasting pan, sear in a hot oven and then reduce oven temperature. Add one-half cup water, one medium-sized onion sliced and cover the pan. Cook slowly for two hours. Serve with mint sauce or a brown gravy made from the juice and drippings from the meat.

Lycopene Squash.
Cut squash into serving pieces. Place in steamer and steam 30 minutes or until tender. Remove pulp from shell, being careful not to break it. Cook finely grated onion in one-third cup water for five minutes; add to squash pulp with butter, salt and pepper; beat until thoroughly mixed. Fill shells until rounded, then sprinkle with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

DIRECTIONS FOR KEEPING THE GREEN IN SPINACH

Many Housewives Complain That Spinach Turns Dark in Cooking.

Spinach will usually keep a good green if it is cooked rapidly in plenty of boiling water in an uncovered saucepan.

There are some kinds of spinach that will turn dark whether they are cooked covered or uncovered. It is generally agreed that the best method of cooking spinach is to steam it, or cook it in a small amount of water. Such methods usually result in a dark colored spinach. Another way of assuring a green color in any green vegetable is by the addition of a pinch of baking soda to the water in which it is cooked.

Federal Trade Commission dresses Zinc Institute Campaign Against

William E. Humphrey, Federal Trade Commissioner, in an address before the eleventh annual meeting of the American Zinc Institute at Hotel Statler, declared that the people of the country were being robbed of hundreds of millions of dollars annually by false and misleading advertisements appearing in newspapers and magazines.

"Some of the more glaring instances of this class of advertising might be cited," said Commissioner Humphrey. "Those holding out alluring promises of lucrative emoluments for incurable diseases, frequently injurious, never of any value, and often by holding out false hopes preventing the victim from seeking any real relief until too late. Various methods for correcting bodily deformities, beauty creams and various rejuvenating cosmetics, some of them frauds and swindles. Perhaps the greatest of all just at the present moment are the various anti-fat remedies, appliances, soaps, belts, machines, powders and medicines; all of them fakes and all of them dishonest—and some of them dangerous."

culture ripening neutralizes the acids as ship-ripening did in old sailing vessel days!

EVERY coffee expert knows that the rich, rare, melodic flavor that coffee used to have in old sailing vessel days was lost when coffee began to be shipped in modern, fast, steel steamships. But now they know what happened to coffee that so enriched its flavor when it rode in slow wooden hulled sailing vessels.

It seems that the damp, warm holds of these wooden vessels developed a culture on the coffee that neutralized the acids, leaving only the rich coffee oils in the bean. This not only made the flavor much finer and mellower, but it also removed the gallotannic acids in coffee that disturb people.

Now a new discovery duplicates this natural culture ripening process. Everywhere folks are proclaiming it as the most important coffee improvement in half a century. For example:

"Never, since I left the old country of Holland, where we had access to the pure Java imported coffee, have I had such a good cup as Culture Ripened."

Dr. P. G. H. VanderWyst, Hoxie, Kansas.

"I think your Culture Ripened is the best by far of any coffee I have ever tasted, and while I have been forbidden coffee, I use yours and have no bad effects from it."

are cooked covered or uncovered. It is generally agreed that the best method of cooking is to steam it, or cook it in a small amount of water. Such methods usually result in a dark colored spinach. Another way of assuring a green color in any green vegetable is by the addition of a pinch of baking soda to the water in which it is cooked.

Federal Trade Commissioner Humphrey Ad-dresses Zinc Institute at Statler on Campaign Against Frauds.

William E. Humphrey, Federal Trade Commissioner, in an address today before the eleventh annual meeting of the American Zinc Institute at Hotel Statler, declared that the people of the country were being robbed of hundreds of millions of dollars annually by false and misleading advertisements appearing in newspapers and magazines.

"Some of the more glaring instances of this class of advertising might be cited," said Commissioner Humphrey. "Those holding out alluring promises of lucrative employment; patent medicine advertisements for incurable diseases, frequently injurious, never of any value, and often by holding out false hopes preventing the victim from seeking any real relief until too late. Various methods for correcting bodily deformities; beauty creams and various rejuvenating cosmetics—all of them frauds and swindles. Perhaps the greatest of all just at the present moment are the various anti-fat remedies, appliances, soaps, belts, machines, powders and medicines; all of them fake and all of them dishonest—and some of them dangerous."

"Fabulous sums are spent for these frauds since the female skeleton has become the fashion in this country. Hair restorers, one of the most misleading and aged frauds. Few men with bald patches seem to be able to withstand the allurements of this ancient and shameless fake. The magazines are filled with this class of advertisements I have mentioned.

Little Success Against Frauds. "The Department of Justice, the Post Office Department and the Federal Trade Commission have all been trying to put these frauds out of business. But the result has been disappointing. We have accomplished comparatively little. Such advertisers are fleeting and cunning crooks, and when proceeded against they fold their tents and silently steal away and commence their fraudulent work in some new locality under a new name. These scoundrels and thieves annually rob the poor, the ignorant, the sick, the afflicted and the credulous of not less than $500,000,000 annually."

"For the last two years, in various speeches I have been calling attention to the liability of the publisher—that he is equally guilty with the advertiser—that he is a necessary part of the plan—that he brings together the crook and the public.

Publishers, Co-Operating.

"Most publishers realize these duties and responsibilities and are co-operating with the commission in its campaign to wipe out false advertising. It may interest you to know that we have within the past three weeks proceeded against more than 200 of these fakers and scoundrels and the publications that publish their advertisements. So far, we have not found a single one of these crooks that will come out into the light of publicity and make a fight. We are going to continue to fight these crooks as long as they continue to swindle and rob the public. We are going to fight these fakers and crooks and thieves until they are put out of business. In this fight we have the help of every honest and decent publisher in the country. In this fight we believe we have the support of every decent and honest citizen."

"The conference in which the publishers promised to clean their columns of such advertisements was held last October. They have had sufficient time to carry out the promises they there publicly made, to the public and to their competitors. The magazines with few exceptions have kept their promises made at that conference and are cleaning their own columns of this criminal filth. Some few are not keeping their promises. We are going to force decency upon these few. We are going to clean these houses for them. I take this opportunity to give fair notice to all publishers and all advertising agencies that hereafter they must be prepared to defend all advertisements that they handle of the class I have described, before the Federal Trade Commission and before the bar of public opinion."

Chester Leasure of the United States Chamber of Commerce told the delegates of the opportunities that organization affords trade associations for self-regulation. "If business itself does not establish standards that will win and deserve the confidence of the public, he pointed out, the Government will be compelled to adopt measures of regulation.

The annual report was made by Ralph M. Roosevelt of New York, president of the Institute. H. A. Gray of Chicago, of the General Traffic Committee, gave a report on traffic conditions of the industry. S. S. Tuthill of New York, secretary of the institute, discussed tariff readjustment. The address of welcome was delivered by Walter B. Welsenburger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Eugene H. Wolff of Joplin responded for the institute.

Officers will be elected tomorrow noon.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 15.—

A tiny cocklebur, placed by a suspicious husband in the car of the man he thought was paying unwelcome attention to his wife, led to the killing of Edward Wood, 29 years old, Illinois station manager, by Tom Overton, 30, his former employer yesterday morning. Overton's aged father told police last night.

Surrendering to police, Overton declared, "I hope I killed him. I've stood long enough." He is held on a charge of murder.

An announcement that the J. S. Merrell Drug Co. of St. Louis has entered the consolidated corporation being formed by McKesson & Robbins, Inc. Eastern drug manufacturers is expected within a week. McKesson & Robbins announced last September that they had acquired control of 15 drug manufacturers with a capital of $34,000,000 and that other companies would be acquired. It was reported at that time that the Merrell company was interested in the merger.

George R. Merrell, president of the local company, was in New York last week. He declined to say today that the deal had been closed. It is expected he will become an officer of the new company. The Merrell Drug Co., the oldest in its line west of the Mississippi River, was founded in 1845, by Jacob S. Merrell. The present head is a son of the founder.

Because of the success of its up-town branch here, National Department Stores, Inc. with which B. Nugent and Bros. Dry Goods Co. of St. Louis, is associated, will open up-town branches throughout its country wide system of stores, according to announcement today by Victor W. Sincere, president of the organization. The first of the new branches will be at Cleveland.

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association will hold a dinner meeting at the Missouri Athletic Association Friday night at 6:30 o'clock. Speakers will be Charles Piez, chairman of the board of the Link-Belt Co. of Chicago, who will discuss "The Illinois Revenue Situation," and George A. Williams, president of the Williams Sealing Corporation of Decatur, who will talk on "Legislation Affecting Industry."

Jackson, Storer & Schwab, Inc., announce the admission to their firm as a senior partner of C. R. D. Meier, a founder of the Heine Boiler Co. until the company was taken over by the International Combustion Co. of which he became vice president. He left the company two years ago and since that time has been in New York. He will be located with the New York office of Jackson, Storer & Schwab, Inc.

the heat is applied after the mixture leaves the carburetor and just enough heat is obtained in this way to get efficiency without increasing the size of the engine. The system is not perfected as the gasoline consumption is about 10 per cent more than in normal temperatures.

On a photographic flight at an altitude of 19,000 feet in a temperature of 33 below zero, the engine began backfiring and missing, due to lack of heat in the oil system. The oil temperature normally is from 150 to 160 degrees Fahrenheit, but on this occasion it fell to 100. Lugging two more oil lines brought it up to 140 and there has been no further trouble.

It is thought that eventually it will be possible to inclose the entire air-cooled engines in cowling so that the flow of air may be regulated and an even temperature may be maintained at all times. Such a complete cowling would be ideal for Antarctic flying.

Better Method of Starting.

The method of starting engines in this climate has been considerably improved by experiments that now an engine clogged with ice and snow may be melted out and started in three-quarters of an hour.

It is frequently found after a storm that fine snow has drifted in through the tiny openings in the canvas cover until every space between the cylinders and rods and even the inside cowling is packed with hard snow. Moreover, the valve box covers are filled with a paste of snow and congealed oil and the entire engine is so still that a man can throw his weight on the propeller without budging it. This looks rather hopeless until a heater is put under the engine and it is heated out. Even then the engine could be turned over, carbureting at a temperature of 40 below is impossible.

To overcome this, the engine is covered with a fireproof canvas cover which also incloses the section containing the oil lines, oil tanks and carburetor. From the bottom of this covering, a tube of the same material extends to the snow and a blow torch is placed under it. Even in the coldest weather with a high wind, it is possible to heat the oil to a temperature of 140 degrees Fahrenheit in 45 minutes. Hot oil is then poured in and the engine is primed properly and the propeller is turned when tuning up. The cover and blow torch are removed and the engine is started up. The only failure since operations began was due to lack of familiarity with the method.

How Valves Are Checked.

Checking valves is more arduous and difficult than at home. It first necessary to heat the engine as if for flight. The valve box covering is then removed and the valves are checked and set. Then the engine is reheated and the valves are checked again.

The heating was necessary because of the paste of snow and oil found in the valve boxes and the fact that everything was so frozen fast that it was impossible to determine clearance. Valve check is made every 15 hours of flying, and there is very little change after the second check.

Incidentally, the clearances used are those recommended by manufacturers for use at home. There have been no changes in the carburetor setting or in the fuel mixture, however.

Landing gear and skis have been very successful. They have withstood tremendous shocks. Two types have been used so far, one with the skis fitted on an ordinary landing gear in the place of wheels, the other with a special landing gear permitting only an up-and-down motion with no side possible.

presupposed American willingness to undertake in effect another phase of activity in co-operation with the League of Nations.

Direct Proposals.

Berlin, Moscow and Nanking each had laid their cards on the table prior to the opening of the session. Nanking's was the last offered—an appeal for the abolition of conscription as a means of maintaining standing armies.

The German proposal, made last week, was for immediate disarmament with limitations on use of aeroplanes in war and other features. The soviet delegation, under the leadership of Maxim Litvinoff, said it would reproduce its old proposals for a 50 per cent graduated reduction of armament.

It was not believed Great Britain would undertake to push any particular plan, since to do so would tend to bind a new Government which may come into power at the general elections May 30.

judges were likely to increase the production of any commodity in which a surplus usually was produced.

Upon application of an advisory commodity committee, the board could recognize a stabilization corporation if it found the marketing situation demanded its formation. Under the regulations, the voting stock and membership interests would have to be owned by co-operative associations.

The corporation, operating with necessary advances from the board, might act as a marketing agency for its stockholders. It would buy, store merchandise, "or otherwise dispose" of the commodity, and would "exert every reasonable effort to avoid losses and to secure profits," but would not be permitted to enhance prices.

Losses would be paid out of profits earned by the corporation, and would not be assessed against the stockholders.

and $1,500,000 would be authorized to pay the expenses and salaries of the board and its employees, and a penalty would be attached to the misuse of information by any person connected with it or any of the various commodity groups or associations with which it dealt.

Members of the House committee were enthusiastic over the approval of the stabilization. Several members said they had "absolute confidence in the President's selection of the proper board" and possibly had not hampered him with too many restrictions.

The measure was worked out by a subcommittee headed by Chairman Haugen. The other members were Representatives Purnell of Indiana, Williams of Illinois, Republicans, and Aswell of Louisiana and Kinscheloe of Kentucky. Democrats.

Sec. 10. Vouchers approved by the chairman of the board for expenditures from the revolving fund pursuant to any loan or advance or insurance agreement shall be final and conclusive upon all officers of the Government; except that all financial transactions of the board shall, subject to the above limitations, be examined by the general accounting office at such times and in such manner as a Comptroller General of the United States may by regulation prescribe. Such examination, with respect to expenditures from the revolving fund or pursuant to any loan or advance or insurance agreement, shall be for the sole purpose of making a report to the Congress and to the board of expenditures and of loan and advance and insurance agreements in violation of law, together with such recommendations thereon as the Comptroller-General deems advisable.

It bothers you? Indigestion and its results—sore stomach, headaches, etc., rheumatism, too much acid, which causes colds—quickly vanish with daily use of ACIDINE.

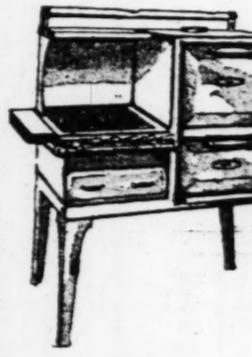

ACIDINE is better because it contains: 1. An entirely new combination of the best anti-acids. 2. A substantial amount of a powerful starchy food digestant, which eliminates one great cause of indigestion— inability to digest starch. 3. A powerful, non-irritating, non-stimulating soother preparation to prevent inflammation of the stomach walls. 4. A carminative to tone up and put life into the stomach. 5. The best, finest, purest, non-irritating, non-stimulating antiseptic.

It is a new discovery, recommended by doctors—an ultra-modern medicine for stomach troubles and resulting ills. No home should ever be without it. Your druggist recommends it or write the makers, Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE PARIS MODE TODAY

As Seen at Luncheon at the Ritz
Special cable by Pierre Le Baux, director of the Paris Fashion Board, and E. Winifred Boulter, associate director.

PARIS, April 14.
THERE is a short, brilliant season in Paris when the chic world returns from the Rives, renews its wardrobe and fits off again to Blarritz. Dusville Le Touques. This season is especially short, but seems the less smart.

Luncheon at the Ritz is everybody's meeting place. All the women seem to wear little skull-caps hats cut up sharply to one side disclosing an eyebrow. Some have the new Rebourg model that has a wide wing movement to the disclosed eyebrow side.

There is Mme. Dubonnet, the former Jean Nash of world-wide fame, in a slim black coat by Paquin, with a silver fox collar of such enormous proportions that its value must be at least half of the ordinary woman's nearly dress allows. A subtle touch is that the head is placed a little to one side at the back of the collar, pointing towards the left shoulder.

Mrs. Perry Belmont looks a distinguished in another black coat with a wide band of silver fox round the hem and more silver foxes climbing up the sleeves with their heads pointing just above the elbow. She wears a little black velvet beret from Rebourg sloping very much to one side to show a large diamond brooch thrust through the head band.

Unusual as this is in Paris, it must be noted that one catches glimpses of yellow and pink or rose crepe de chine frocks under long coats that are either black or beige. Not many of these, but they are a novelty.

Lady Abby is there, very chic in a navy blue suit from Chanel. Her jacket is short, as we heard they would be, and discloses a navy blue and white chandail with a wavy stripe. One of the products of Chanel's own factory at Asnières, a new step against copyists.

Madame Revel, lovely and distinguished, wears a long Vionnet coat of black cloth with almost invisible hemline incrustations at the waistline, and a large collar and wide cuffs of sand colored fox. Her small Rebourg hat has a tiny upstanding feather at one side.

Schiaparelli is there in black as usual. She wears her new segue coat that excites so much admiration with its pleated sleeves caught in the middle in a narrow band and with another at the wrist, like those seen in medieval pictures.

Madame Agnes favors a deep Italian Madonna blue, a simple dress by Vionnet. With it she wears one of her hats cut with slanting wing pieces at the sides sewn onto the skirt forming a wide sweeping back. Hers was in black. A very tall young American had the Auguste-Bernard success with frills in forms bordering wide oval panels in bright red faille.

Many chiffon gowns, no sparkling ones, chiffon sometimes lace-edged handkerchiefs matching or contrasting, crepe de chine or satin ruffles matching and sometimes in broad, wide, diamond necklaces and some of the new bright colored glass head roses.

THE GARDEN IN SPRINGTIME
(National Garden Bureau)

KEEPING THE GROUNDS UP-TO-DATE

FASHIONS change in everything. An advertisement of 20 years ago would seem strange now; a woman dressed in the styles of 1900 would be absurd; and a political argument from the 1896 free silver campaign would not get mentioned in 1929.

Those who regard themselves as being "garden connoisseurs" who become observant of outdoor beauty, quickly learn that fashions in gardening change, and that in the last 30 years there has been a great alteration in our ideas of how the grounds about a home should be developed.

Many remember when it was considered the height of fashion to have a cast-iron deer, or dog, prominent in the front yard; when round beds of canna or geraniums always punctuated the center of a green plot; and the height of attainment for the amateur gardener was a clock made of flowers, or a "carpet bed" in which a geometric pattern was worked out with flowers crowded so closely together that it was difficult to tell what any individual flower looked like.

All these are passe today; new ideas prevail in gardening just as in dress; and these ideas are changing somewhat from year to year, just as dress ideas change. And the garden, just as one's dress, should be kept up-to-date. The ideas that landscape work once done is done forever will not work. And who wants it so?

Interest is maintained by change; no gardener who keeps interested is ever satisfied with standstill. He wants to keep his garden up-to-date, constantly trying something new. A new lilac or philadelphus, a rock or water garden, a new accent in some important spots; such as a sun-dial, a fountain, or a seat; the newer irises and peonies—all these should keep garden interest alive and make every spring season a period of experiment and anticipation, and bring with every summer the satisfaction that comes from progress.

Will Stay Put.

A strip of oilcloth sewn along the underside of each end of the small rug will prevent its slipping on the hardwood floors and thus cause accidents.

Selecting Wall Paper

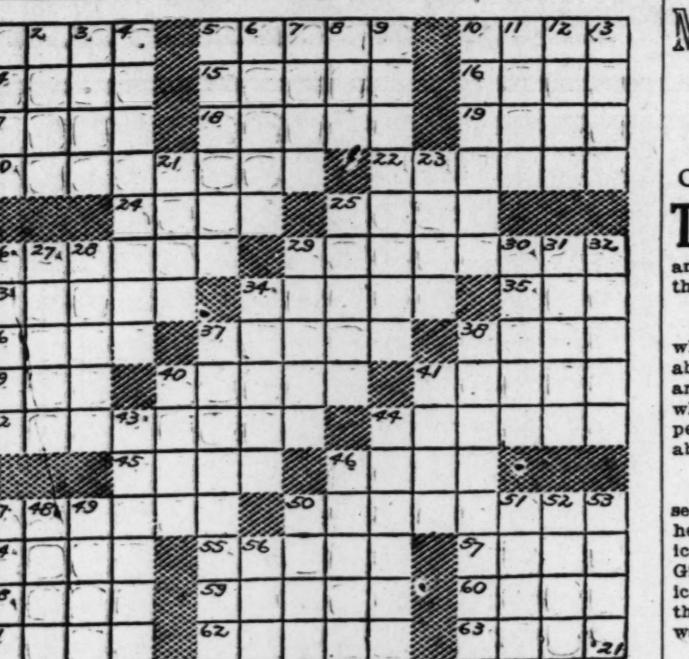

WHEN purchasing wall paper avoid the cheap printed varieties. It costs just the same to have these hung, so the saving is only in the actual cost of the paper, and when one considers how quickly these inferior colors fade and how soon the paper turns brown, just as old newspapers turn, it does not seem like a real economy, unless the householder hangs it. In that case there is no labor, and the paper can be renewed frequently.

When selecting paper do not take a striped paper for a narrow room, as this will accentuate the narrowness. For the low room pick out a very narrow border or have just the molding.

A small pattern should be chosen for the small room. Rooms with a northern or eastern exposure should have papers of a warm tone or rich designs with yellow predominating, while those facing the south and west should be better suited to the cooler shades.

Save the leftover grime from the roast. It comes in very nicely when the roast has been reduced to a stew or hash in place of the water usually added.

Without Grease.
Always keep a piece of brown paper close to the stove when frying an article in deep fat. As soon as the food is the desired brown, lift it from the fat with a perforated spoon and place on the brown paper to drain. The paper will absorb every bit of fat and the plate will go to the table free of grease and therefore very appetizing.

Simple Science for Everybody

MOVIES BY RADIO.

IMAGINE all of the stars of Broadway performing in our living room or our bedrooms at the touch of a button! A thrilling mystery or a love story for the screen of a disc! That is what pictures by radio will probably come to us within a few years. A perfectly clear pictures come to us now, mostly by radio. And not only are single pictures sent, whole serials of motion pictures are successfully dispatched either as bedtime stories or, of course the ether which fills space and pervades all objects the earth does not actually have the pictures, any more than the sound. It carries electric waves which are changed into just as our radios change waves into sound.

In the case of a photograph the film is set into motion by an electric roller upon which the film and picture has been wound. The roller revolves at exactly the speed of a roller at the receiver and upon which a sensitive film is wound. The speed of the two rollers is kept the same. Then a beam of light is thrown through part of the film revolving at sending end, and the amount of light that filters through determines the strength of the beam sent out in the ether. A electric cell catches the filtered light and changes it into electric waves in the ether. So bright light which gets through film or light places on the film sends a strong wave, and fainter light which filters through the heavy dark spots of film sends a weaker wave.

The receiving end the waves caught by the receiving set as our radio aerials catch the waves which are later turned sound by our loud speakers.

In the case of pictures, the electric waves play on our sensitive screen and shutters send to their strength, and when it lets light in on the sensitive film in exactly the same proportion as the film at the sending end, released the light.

It is this light and shade which is this light and shade of the picture.

In the case of motion pictures by the latest method of recording the waves is through a neon tube.

The neon tube looks like an ordinary electric light bulb, it is filled with neon gas and is instantaneously for each tiny wave and gets dark immediately.

By means of this swiftly flashing tube, which lights as many as 40,000 times each single frame, such a quick series of housecleaning will be obliterated.

Spring Housecleaning

HOUSECLEANING is the semiannual bugbear it was to the housewives of a quarter of a century ago, for women have learned the advantage of present-day household appliances make it possible to clean house as we go, as there is no longer the necessity of general upheaval that in mother's day meant discomfort to the entire family for a week or longer.

However, with the coming of the major reasons, the housewife's thoughts just naturally turn to home renovations and improvements.

If she has not trained her family in the ways they should do in the home she will find much to retard her task.

There may be a cluttered cellar, a store room where "everything is in a mess" and the individual closets may require days to straighten out.

This is discouraging and is all quite unnecessary labor. It is no task for each member to keep his own possessions in order to put articles used in the place where they belong and not to save things because they "might come in handy some day," by which the entire task falls on one person it is a tax on her time and strength.

Avoid this by rightly training the members of the family. Instruct each one what is expected of the family members. At first it may be necessary for you to keep track but after a while it will become a habit and one laborious phase of housecleaning will be obliterated.

THE CARE OF THE BABY

By Claire Morton.

WHY HE EATS THINGS

THE perfect baby does not eat things he picks up.

Children, particularly babies, pick up and eat strange things because of an unconscious impulse of their bodies to make up for deficiencies in their diet.

Pregnant women have the same tendency. You find one craving ground coffee, another eating chalk or lead pencils.

Babies, on the other hand, eat sand or dirt. Some eat everything they can lay their hands on, indiscriminately. It doesn't take a doctor to guess that a child who does this is either hungry or has been fed the wrong food—or he needs something else not provided in his diet.

One of the ways to make sure that your child gets every bit of the lime and mineral matter that he needs is to include a handful of spinach in every noon meal.

This is harsh to the older generation. They will tell you that children "always" pick up things and eat them.

Feed your child properly and you can point him out as one who doesn't.

BATHING SUITS GAY AND GAUDY

HIS year's beach girl will have to stay even further away from the water than her predecessors, because her new bathing suit or printed wood jersey will have yellows, reds and greens stamped on it in the general effect of an exploding paint factory, according to advices from Paris.

Salt water might mar the riotous stamped patterns of spring's proffered bathing suit patterns. If the modern art ran, the 1929 bathing beauty would look like something left over from the impressionist period of expression.

Among the quieter combinations in the gaudy colored jersey prints destined for beach wear, sleeveless pullovers and one-piece swimming suits, are riots of crimson, orange and black on white grounds.

There are three-cornered jersey scarves, also gaudy printed in the new season's sport offerings. These are meant to be worn instead of cape belts or beach coats.

Another thought for the bathing beauty is the straw-covered sunshade with handle and ferrule of colored glass. Beach pillows and bags are also made of straw or imitation straw.

There is plenty of wooden jewelry for the young ladies who can't leave off barbaric ornaments even on the beach. The beach costume includes large round beads and rondelle in bright colors, bracelets and anklets of carved wood and bone. One specialist shows beach earrings including a single pendant meant to bring good fortune, after the former Cossack style of wearing one earring for luck.

Roast Chicken

Roast the chicken with the breast up until well browned, then turn it upside down and cook it with the breast down until tender. In this way all the juices run into the breast and make a much more delicious chicken.

WALL STREET
BRISK RALLY
MARKS STOCK
TRADE CLOSE

Reversal of Form Is in Face of Advance in Call Money From 8 to 9 Per Cent and Lower Copper Prices.

SMALLEST SALES SINCE DECEMBER

J. S. Steel Common Fails to Participate in the Up-swing — Break in Copper Early in Day.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Stocks closed a complete reversal of form today, rallying markedly in the last hour of trading after an irregularly lower trend in the morning. The rally which took place in the face of an advance from 8 to 9 per cent in call money and another downward readjustment of copper prices, was believed to reflect Wall street's relief over the absence of any comment on credit conditions in President Hoover's message to Congress. Many of the early losses were put down or wiped out. American stood out by soaring more than 6 points to new high record of 136 1/4. U. S. Steel common, which had been in the up-swing, closed at the day's low, 184 1/4, off 7 1/2 points net. Trading was the liveliest of any full session since December.

President Hoover's message to Congress apparently was without market influence. Rumors that the message would contain some reference to the credit situation proved to be unfounded. The market also disregarded the record-breaking first quarter sales report of the General Motors publication, and the many new merger rumors in circulation.

Call Money Firm

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and held firm at that figure throughout the morning despite the calling of about $15,000,000 in loans. Time money was unchanged, but an easier undertone was reported in the bankers' acceptance market.

With the terms of the new stock offering scheduled to be announced after the close of the market, the buoyancy of U. S. Steel common, which sold down more than 2 points to 184 1/4 in the early afternoon, was somewhat of a disappointment, and led to the belief that the stock may already have counted the "good news." Fresh buying support developed in the stock in mid-afternoon.

Steel Stock for $140.

Directors of the United States Steel Corporation after close of market today offered shareholders the right to purchase 1,016,605 additional shares of common stock at $140 a share in the ratio of one share for each seven shares held.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to retire bonded debt.

Heavy liquidation continued in copper stocks. Granby broke 21 points despite the publication of the 1928 report showing $3.45 a pound was earned on the common, as against 21 cents in 1927, and the statement of Chairman Hayden that the outlook for the coming year was "most promising." Cerro Potosi broke below 87 to a new low for the year, and several others were hammered down 2 to 4 points.

A few new spots were uncovered by "bear" traders. Webster-Bendix broke eight points to a new low at 81. Western Union, through Adding Machine, Burns & Johnson, Manville and Superior, Schenck and Retail Stores dropped three points from the recommendation of David Schulte that common dividends be omitted until the cigar price cutting was ended in 60 days. All recovered some of their losses at the close, with Johns Manville showing a net gain of 1/4 point.

Holland Furnace, Lackawanna Railroad, Chrysler and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit also sold at new levels for the year.

Skelly Leads Oils.

Skelly was the leader of the oil group, crossing 42 to a new high. Simms Petroleum and Union Oil of California also moved to new high ground.

Crescent Castel jumped six points to a new peak at 50 1/2 and Penn and Ford moved up to a new high of 57. United States Industrial Alcohol ran up five points in early trading.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 35, 36, 37.
